Report Urges U.S. to Join Trading Group

By MAX FREEDMAN
(Special to The Times)

WASHINGTON — In a historic report to Congress that may transform American economic policy, the United States has been urged to form a "trade partnership with the European Common Market" and to "take the leadership in further expanding a free world economic community."

This advice has been submitted to Congress on behalf of both parties in a report written by Christian Herter, former secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, and William Clayton, an under-secretary of state in the Truman administration.

The report welcomes the formation of the Common Market, expresses the hope that Britain will become an important member of it, and declares its conviction that the Common Market has changed the whole outlook for world trade.

It adds that Canada and the United States should join with the western European countries that together form the 20 members of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development to create a unified market comprising "a half billion of the most highly industrialized peoples in the world."

It warns that if the U.S. fails to associate itself with

'NO TALKS WITH US' —JOHN D

OTTAWA (CP) — There have been no talks between Canada and the United States on the possibility of either nation joining the European Common Market, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

He declined comment on a report Wednesday by Christian Herter, American state secretary in the Eisenhower administration, urging the U.S. to establish a trading partnership with the Common Market.

The Common Market movement there will be constant economic friction between western Europe and the United States and its Allies in the Pacific.

'Longer We Wait, Harder It Will Be'

"The longer the United States waits," the report declares, "the more difficult it will be to align its trade policies to match the Common Market's own actions. By the end of this very year, the Six will have reduced their tariffs to each other by 40 to 50 per cent."

"Thus we recommend that the United States open negotiations, as soon as practicable, for a trade partnership with the European Common Market, at the same time stressing the absolute necessity of enlarging the area."

Mr. Herter and Mr. Clayton said in their report that the achievement of a free world economic community will create a new sense of partnership with the uncommitted countries and strengthen their resistance to communism. They proposed that one way to ease the adjustment for the uncommitted countries, and to raise their standard of living, would be to grant unilaterally to groups of such countries, as distinguished from individual countries, the right to free trade on their exports of raw materials to industrial countries. Another way would be by reduction in import tariffs by these uncommitted countries at the rate of five per cent per annum in consideration of the industrialized countries reducing their duties at the rate of 10 per cent per annum.

Comparative Advantage the Basis

"Without restrictive tariffs or other impediments to the movement of goods across national frontiers," the report declares, "production would be rationalized on the basis of comparative advantage, just as it has been in the fifty states of the U.S.A. Under such conditions there would, in our opinion, take place the greatest expansion in productive facilities, including those of the United States, that the world has ever known."

The report describes Britain's decision to open negotiations for joining the common market as "a turning point in history." It adds that the common market ushers in an age of new competition, new ideas, and new initiative. Then it continues:

"But the happy prospect of healing western European differences still leaves the two sides of the Atlantic with a gap in economic policies that is getting wider, not narrower, all the time."

"On the one hand, western Europe, for centuries divided into many separate economic and political compartments, is attempting now the elimination of her internal trade barriers and their customs houses so that her 325 million people and their goods can move freely from one country to another.

"On the other hand, the United States is in reverse. It takes too frequent refuge in protectionist devices. But even if this country stood still it would be drifting backwards because it would not be keeping pace with Europe's determined move forward."

"At the close of the Second World War the United States embarked upon a policy designed to bring about a great expansion in the world economy. There resulted the GATT and later the Marshall Plan, with the Organization for European Economic Co-operation to implement it. OEEC, now the larger organization for economic co-operation and development, was organized at the request of the United States by countries recipient of Marshall Plan aid. It is perhaps not too much to say

Torn and twisted houses line muddy streets of devastated capital of Belize in British Honduras after onslaught of Hurricane Hattie on Tuesday. Officials reported today that at least 100 died in

Wet and Wetter But No Snow

A weather disturbance expected to give snow at higher levels up Island will give Victoria nothing but rain, weatherman William Mackie predicted today.

"There will be rain by early evening, he said, and overcast skies overnight, but Friday will be a mixture of cloudy and sunny periods."

"Clouding will become general by Friday evening, and there may be rain again Friday night," he said. Temperatures overnight and early this morning dropped to as low as 27 degrees in portions of the city and district away from the sea. Highest minimum recorded overnight was 37 degrees at Gonzales Observatory.

Forecast calls for a minimum of 38 degrees tonight and a peak of 48 degrees Friday.

WIRE BRIEFS

Bomb Cloud Near

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States weather bureau estimated the radioactive debris from Monday's Russian super-bomb explosion was riding winds over the Aleutian Island chain today toward Alaska and possibly Western Canada.

Ship Pulled Free

NANAIMO (CP) — Three husky tugs today pulled the 7,000-ton Panamanian-registered freighter Belfair free from a sandbar where she was driven hard aground by a northwester early Wednesday. The Japanese-owned ship is not believed to be damaged. (See earlier Page 32.)

Thant Has Formula

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union and the United States continued to express optimism today after U Thant of Burma gave them his secret formula for resolving the deadlock blocking appointment of an interim United Nations secretary-general.

Laos Fighting Slows

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Fighting between pro-Western Meo tribesmen and pro-Communist and neutralist forces apparently slackened today as the International Control Commission was granted permission to land aircraft on the rebel-held Plain of Jars. (See Page 18.)

BLOODY BATTLE WAGED IN VIET NAM AMBUSH

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A South Vietnamese paratroop battalion fought its way out of a communist ambush in a bloody battle against heavy odds only 40 miles from Saigon Wednesday, the government announced today.

The 300-man force was attacked by 1,000 communist guerrillas. A spokesman said the paratroopers lost 200 men and the Reds 100.

Testing Moratorium Unfeasible — Russia

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union today rejected any new United Nations moratorium on nuclear bomb testing as unfeasible in practice and fundamentally incorrect as an approach to ending such tests. (See earlier page 8.)

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today the United States will make preparations to set off nuclear tests in the atmosphere if they become necessary to safeguard free world security.

Kennedy, in a statement read personally to reporters after a meeting of the National Security Council, said the U.S. would never test in the atmosphere for political reasons.

Atmospheric tests, which spread radioactive fallout, would be resorted to only if determined necessary to maintain U.S. responsibilities in the world, Kennedy said.

Even if such a situation is deemed to exist, he said, tests in the atmosphere would be undertaken only to the degree necessary for "older development" of nuclear weapons. Kennedy once again emphasized that the United States is strong militarily — strong enough to retaliate with devastation if attacked.

He also said the United States, to demonstrate its nuclear capabilities, would not have to fire a nuclear explosive of 50 megatons or more such as the Soviet Union detonated this week.

UNDERLYING PROBLEMS TO BE PROBED

Canadian Peace Research Institute Formed

MONTREAL (CP) — Three prominent Canadian scientists today announced the establishment of the Canadian Peace Research Institute—a non-profit institute incorporated under federal charter "to engage scientists in full-time research on problems that underlie international tensions and the nuclear peril."

The announcement was made at the third annual seminar on international affairs at Sir George Williams University by Norman Z. Alcock of Oakville, Ont., engineer and nuclear physicist; Dr. Brock Chisholm of Victoria, former director-general of the World Health Organization, and Kenneth E. Boulding, professor of economics at the University of Michigan and formerly of McGill University.

The scientists said financial arrangements for the institute will be complete early in 1962 and "it will be operating, with an initial staff of 25 scientific personnel, in 1962."

Institute scientists would examine the physical, economic and social bases of international tension and recommend means of alleviating or eliminating them to the government.

STUDY BASIC PROBLEMS

Early projects of the Canadian Peace Research Institute would include four basic problems:

1. Psychological barriers to disarmament and a world authority. The study would include analysis of the instinctive and economic fears of disarming and of submitting to a world authority, and devising means of removing the basis of these fears.

2. Development of safeguards against accidental war. Scientists would devise methods of preventing an accidental nuclear explosion and would seek to improve communications between major powers to prevent the outbreak of war over a nuclear accident.

3. Analysis of the experience of United Nations police forces to determine the requisites for most effective action.

4. Compilation of a yearbook on international tensions. Using sociological techniques, scientists would predict trouble spots in the world so that preventive measures could be taken before crises were reached.

PUBLIC PAYS HALF

The establishment and operation of the institute from 1962 to 1966, the scientists said, will cost about $4,000,000. Public subscriptions for half the amount would be sought, and the federal government would be asked to match them.

The Peace Research Institute, to be established at a university in Eastern Canada, is supported by five national organizations: Voice of Women, the Canadian Committee for the Control of Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, the Society of Friends (Quakers) and the World Federalists of Canada.

Gore Says PNR 'Will Go Ahead'

Legal Details To Be Cleared

VANCOUVER (CP)—The president of the Pacific Northern Railways says the company will go ahead with construction of its 700-mile right-of-way in northern B.C.

By MOBUTU

Katanga Gains Claimed

(Times News Services)

LEOPOLDVILLE—Gen. Joseph Mobutu said today troops of the central Congo government have moved along a wide front more than 35 miles into north Katanga province in a general offensive to end the long-standing secession proclaimed by President Moise Tshombe of Katanga.

Occupying villages and mission stations as they march, Mobutu said his troops have been joyously received by the Katanga population.

The beaming army commander-in-chief told reporters flags of the central government are being planted all along the route from Kasai province into northwestern Katanga.

"The missionaries and villagers are rushing out to greet us, giving our troops food and candy," he said.

Mobutu said he had given the order for the offensive after his troops along the Katanga border had been bombed by Katanga planes. Troops under the control of Premier Albert Kalonji of south Kasai province had shot down one of the Katanga planes, Mobutu said.

CRASH CLAIMS TWO

He said it was occupied by five white mercenaries in mufti. Two were killed in the crash and "the others were finished off by the soldiers."

Mobutu said the purpose of the offensive was "to end the secession of Katanga."

He said Congolese troops brought to Kasai from various garrisons had attacked only after the "Katanganese provocation" of mortar fire across the frontier and after a bombing raid.

"Wenner-Gren will build the PNR," Bernard Gore said Wednesday in a telephone interview from London, England.

"The B.C. government is well aware of our position," he said. "They know there are certain legal technicalities to be cleared up. When this is done, the rail line will be built."

In Victoria Transport Minister Westwood would not comment today on plans for the railroad in northern British Columbia.

He was in his office but his secretary told reporters that if their questions had anything to do with the PNR there would be "no comment."

The railway, one of the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, had until Nov. 1 to let contracts for clearing the first 100 miles of its proposed 700-mile right-of-way from Summit Lake to the Yukon border.

An agreement with the government in June stipulated that if work did not begin by Nov. 1 the firm would forfeit its franchise.

Mr. Gore said no contract has been let. He said the company replied in September to the government ultimatum and is still awaiting word from Mr. Westwood.

He refused to detail the legal complications or say whether the PNR had asked for an extension of the deadline.

However, it was understood that the legal problems concern a lawsuit brought earlier by the city of Prince Rupert, which says the new railway should branch north from the Canadian National Railway line near Hazelton.

Rate Cut By April

B.C. Electric president Dr. Gordon Shrum said today that the company's power rates likely will be reduced by April 1 next year.

Speaking at a Rotary Club luncheon, he said the aim of the company is to have a single price for power throughout B.C., and eventually to reduce rates in the province to the level of those in Ontario.

West Berliners Fear Big 4 Pact Weakened

BERLIN (Reuters) — West Berlin newspapers today criticized an Allied order empowering West Berlin police to impose controls over certain diplomatic traffic from East and West Berlin.

One newspaper said the order could take "another slice" from four-power agreements on Berlin and another commented that "large political consequences can result."

An American spokesman said the order was given at the request of the West Berlin government headed by Mayor Willy Brandt. But city government sources said they understood it was the outcome of talks in Moscow between American Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet foreign ministry officials.

Under the order, West Berlin police now check the identities of all persons in civilian clothes entering the city from East Berlin except for those travelling in official Soviet vehicles.

'Open Competitive Trading' U.S. Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kennedy administration pledged itself Wednesday night to a new foreign economic policy of "open competitive trading" for the whole non-Communist world.

Undersecretary of State George Ball, in a speech to the national foreign trade convention, forecast the emergence of a concentration "of nearly 90 per cent of the total free world exports of industrial products in two great common markets. One of these, he said, would be the European Common Market "consisting of over 300,000,000 people." The other would be the United States, with its 180,000,000 people.

Ball said trade barrier reductions negotiated by the European Common Market and the United States would be non-discriminatory, and therefore would create expanding opportunities for other countries.

SIX-LEGGED TOMCAT LIVES NORMAL LIFE

GROSSETO, Italy (AP) — A six-legged tomcat is reported thriving here. Dr. Francesco Pestellini says he saw the animal roaming about last July, caught it and made a pet of it. He says it has two extra legs halfway back, runs with great agility and eats a normal diet. He plans to make X-ray studies of the animal.

TRADE REPORT

that it was the father of the common market.
"It is interesting now to recall that the American proposal for an OEEC caused the Russians to walk out of the first international Marshall Plan meeting in 1947, and to force Poland and Czechoslovakia to withdraw their tentative acceptance of Marshall Plan aid. The Soviet Union realized then that such a group might one day become an effective roadblock to Communist ambitions."
"If the United States is to continue to meet its responsibilities of western leadership in preserving the freedom of the western world, it must again, as in 1947, put the national and international interest ahead of the short-term special interest of its politically powerful minority groups."
"It cannot be repeated too often that communism is waging war against the West—relentlessly, craftily, cunningly. The West will lose this war unless it can maintain a western unity and can keep the contested countries independent and out of the communist bloc."

NATO Limited to Military Policies

"If the communists are able to win and organize most of the contested countries, communism will dominate the world. The West has NATO but it is largely limited to a military alliance."
"There will probably be no shooting in Khrushchev's war. The communists have a cheaper, shrewder way. They plan to take us alive, with all our assets intact. If they can encircle us, our grandchildren will live under communism, as Khrushchev has said. Western unity is essential to western survival."
"The 20 OEEC countries—18 western European countries plus the United States and Canada—comprise one-half billion of the most highly industrialized peoples in the world. Acting in unity, there is almost nothing that they could not do."

Act Must Be Reshaped, Broadened

"At this juncture we see only one course to consider as the reciprocal trade agreements act presents itself for action next year."
"If the act were allowed to expire, this would be a clear victory for protectionism. The symbol of our liberalism would be gone. The president's negotiating authority would be gone. But the protectionist clauses of the act would remain, for they are permanent law."
"The challenges of the times demand a substantial broadening and reshaping of the act. For another term of several years. This approach recognizes the limitations of the act as now written, and recognizes that the United States needs an enormously stronger hand than it has if it is to meet the competitive challenge that is built into the common market. But we hope that this would not mean a postponement of rethinking with the greater questions we must face."

Best Vehicle for Beating Nikita

"More than any broadening or reshaping of the existing law, however, we believe that the most hopeful vehicle for strengthening the west and thus for defeating Khrushchev in the cold war is to be found in the example of the common market."
"The object of a common market is to enlarge the number of consumers within a free trade area. The United States was formed into a common market when the 13 colonies were welded into one nation by the adoption of the constitution. For many years Europe has dreamed of a united states of Europe. Now they have made a beginning."
"Mr. Herter and Mr. Clayton submitted this report to congress at the request of the joint congressional economic committee which will hold hearings next year on trade policy. There will be voices raised in criticism of this report but they have forced the debate to come to grips with the relationship of the United States to the common market. This debate will at once have a profound influence on Canadian interests and Canadian policies."

Last Two Nobel Prizes Awarded

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The last two 1961 Nobel Prizes were awarded today to two American scientists and a West German. All are now working in California.
The prize in chemistry went to Dr. Melvin Calvin of the University of California for his work in photosynthesis. The physics prize went jointly to Dr. Robert Hofstadter of Stanford University and Dr. Rudolf Moessbauer of Munich University for basic atomic research. Moessbauer now is working at the California Institute of Technology.
Each prize is worth 250,000 Swedish crowns ($48,300). Hofstadter and Moessbauer will split that amount.

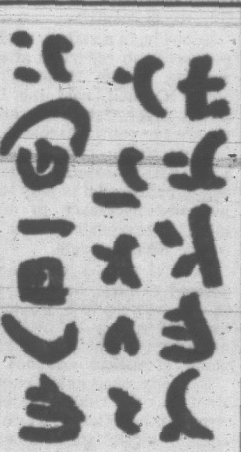

PIONEER STUDY

In its citation, the 140-member Swedish Royal Academy of Science said Hofstadter was honored for "his pioneering studies of electron scattering in atomic nuclei and for his thereby achieved discoveries concerning the structure of the nucleus."

This constituted one of the greatest steps toward harnessing the effect of a nuclear reaction and making peaceful use of atomic power possible. Moessbauer was cited "for his research concerning the resonance absorption of gamma radiation and his discovery in this connection of the effect which bears his name."
The German scientist's work is of fundamental importance in all atomic research and is a factor in reckoning the changes for future space flights between planets when radiation of other kinds have to be overcome.

HE COULDN'T STAND TESTS

HIROSHIMA (AP)—Police said today that a man who survived the atomic bombing of Hiroshima committed suicide because he was depressed by the current Soviet nuclear tests. Morimune Ichikawa, 34, hanged himself in a warehouse two days ago. Police said that since the start of the Soviet tests Sept. 1 he had expressed protest by staging one-man sit-down strikes.

'STIMULATING EVENING'

Choir, Orchestra In Dual Concert

BY AUDREY JOHNSON
Orchestral and choral work by two fine, musicianly ensembles provided another stimulating evening for a Victoria Musical Art Society audience, Wednesday, at the Oak Bay Junior High School.

Second in the winter series of concerts, it featured the Meistersingers male voice-ensemble and the Greater Victoria Schools Orchestra. Both groups also introduced soloists whose ability and talents were impressive.

Under the inspiration of Mrs. Dorothy Evans' gifted baton, the young-orchestra played with style and genuine brio. They have at their command an extensive palette of tonal color and a degree of flexibility that is really astonishing in such a mixed age group.

PROFESSIONAL TOUCH

One could not help but notice the authority of concert mistress Veronica Milton, the good tone and intonation of the cornet solo bit in the "Aida" march, the earnest professionalism of the tympanist.

Three able young flautists, Lesley Fraser, Joan Meredith, and Terry Poisson, charmed the ear with their well tuned trio in Anderson's "Penny Whistle Song."

Clarinetist Keith Donaldson provided a secure and elegant cadenza in Von Suppe's "Morning, Noon and Night" overture.

The soy bean, with its high yield and wide variety of uses, has been a major crop in some parts of Asia for 5,000 years.

Ted Boulden and Gilbert Margison shared conducting honors through a baker's dozen of numbers by the Meistersingers.

WIDE RANGE

Chosen from a wide field—Bach to "Carousel"—all were sung with obvious enjoyment and even the simplest, the "Poor Lonesome Cowboy" had such careful musicianship lavished upon it that it emerged as a finely polished semi-precious gem.

"Battle Hymn of the Republic" seemed a shade slow, but it left one with a desire for more of the briefly-heard young soloist, Hans Steffen.

Mezzo contralto Marjorie Sturgeon, with the choir, created a lovely mood in an excerpt from Brahms' "Alto Rhapsody." Bass Alan Hubbard's voice was heard to advantage against a choral background in "Water Boy," incidentally one of the best numbers of the evening.

The choir was accompanied at the piano by R. Kroeger.

RE-ELECTED

Labor Party of Britain tonight re-elected Hugh Gait as party leader, who has consolidated his control after last year's "ban-the-bomb" policy split. He beat left winger Anthony Greenwood 171 to 59.

BONN (Reuters)—The parliamentary group of Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrat party today voted overwhelmingly in favor of a coalition agreement with the minority Free Democrats, party sources said.

Midwife on Scene For Royal Birth

LONDON (Reuters)—Anne Thomson, one of two midwives who will attend the birth of Princess Margaret's child, has moved into Clarence House where the baby will be born, it was announced today.

Katanga Gets Protest From UN on Air Raid

O'Leary Report Before MPs

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a press conference today he will consult Opposition Leader Pearson soon about government plans to call the next session of Parliament.

He would not say, however, whether the government intends to open the next session before Christmas.

He said the Commons will be asked to deal with recommendations of the O'Leary royal commission on publications, Senate reform, legislation to require foreign-controlled companies and unions to disclose their business interests in Canada, employment, and the MacPherson royal commission report on transportation—if its second report is made public in time.

ANNOUNCE DATE LATER

Mr. Diefenbaker said the date for the next session opening "has about been determined" but the announcement will not be made "for some little time."

"I would want to discuss the question with Mr. Pearson and no announcement will be made then."

The prime minister said consideration will be given during the next session to the O'Leary report recommending measures to encourage Canadian periodical publications, but said further details could not be made public until the House meets.

"There will be an opportunity for Parliament to deal with some of the recommendations made by the commission," he said.

He also said careful examination is being made of immigration department regulations. He would not say there would be a revision of the Immigration Act during the coming session.

"I expect that shortly there will be an announcement made with regard to regulations which will to a considerable extent determine the application of the act itself."

He declined to say whether the new regulations would permit more immigrants to enter Canada from the West Indies.

He said that of the 62 undertakings made by the government in the 1957 and 1958 election campaigns, "over 50 have been carried out."

Senate reform was one of the promises and "it will not be entirely lost sight of."

The question of redistribution—redrawing the boundaries of electoral constituencies on the basis of population shifts shown in the 1961 census—would have to be considered when census figures are complete.

There would be "continuing action" on the government's program to meet unemployment, but he said he could not indicate what legislation on the subject would be introduced.

Asked whether he expected the next session to be a long one, he replied that while governments set the date for starting sessions it is the opposition which determines how long they will last.

U.K. Eases Drinking Regulations

LONDON (AP) — Britain's drinkers raised their glasses today to longer drinking hours and more places to drink in.

A new law that came into force Wednesday gave tipplers these new privileges:

They can buy bottled goods at a liquor store before the pubs open or during the mid-afternoon hours when they are closed. Liquor stores in the past had to adopt pub hours—usually from around 10.30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 10.30 p.m.

Restaurants and hotels that don't have liquor licences now can serve drinks with meals if they supply at least one main meal a day.

Guests in licensed hotels or boarding houses now can take friends back for a drink after pub closing time.

Patrons in pubs and inns are allowed a 10-minute "drinking up" time after the bar has closed.

In London's West End, clubs and restaurants with special licences to serve drinks until 3 a.m. can now keep it flowing until 3 a.m.—Sunday mornings, too.

All over Britain drinks at Saturday night dances can be served until the early hours of Sunday—except at Easter.

There were many missing and the death toll from the killer storm Tuesday was expected to go higher.

Thousands are homeless. Officials said it was impossible yet to estimate the number of injured.

Hattie, with winds up to 200 miles an hour and tidal waves, left this capital of the British Caribbean colony a scene of devastation.

By nightfall 40 of the city's 31,000 residents had been counted dead.

Twenty-five were reported killed in Stanek, the colony's second-largest town; 20 on Turneffe Cay, and 14 on Caulker Cay. The latter two are islands off the coast.

The Guatemalan government reported five persons killed in Guatemala's jungle province of Peten, and joining British Honduras. One person was reported killed on the north coast of Honduras.

Governor Sir Colin Thornley estimated that more than 75 per cent of the buildings in Belize had been destroyed or damaged. Stanek, a town of 5,000 was reported 90 per cent destroyed.

STATE OF EMERGENCY

Martial law was in effect and the governor declared a state of emergency.

Police used tear gas Wednesday to scatter mobs looting grocery and department stores, and 20 looters were arrested.

The police superintendent said many of the looters were led by some of the 200 prisoners released from Belize prison late Monday night when the hurricane's force was building up. The winds and tidal waves later destroyed the prison.

Governor Thornley described the situation as a "national disaster infinitely greater than that of 1931, when a hurricane killed over 2,000 people." He said the loss of life was far lower this time only because the area had warning of Hattie's approach.

Thornley said 20-foot-high waves pounded through the ground floor of the governor's house Tuesday.

He reported all official records in Government House were washed away.

The winds started pounding Belize around midnight Monday and continued until early Tuesday morning, when the Caribbean poured across the city.

SEARCH FOR FRIENDS

The waters reached an average height of 10 feet throughout the area. They subsided Tuesday afternoon, leaving a heavy coat of mud over the wrecked city.

Survivors of the city's muddy debris-filled streets today, looking for missing friends, food and shelter.

Boats lay where they had been tossed up by the storm or drifted on their sides in the Belize River.

Telephone and power lines hung from dangerously leaning poles. The city was without electric power, and the only safe water came from a chlorinated supply being distributed throughout the city by tank truck.

Few buildings in Belize remained unscathed. Some wooden houses were smashed to splinters. Some persons were killed by sheets of tin roofing hurtling through the air.

The entire coastal area of British Honduras was devastated. In a flight over the region one village appeared submerged under the muddy waters with only a few red roofs and tops of palm trees showing.

STORM BREAKS APART

The hurricane broke apart against the mountains of British Honduras Tuesday afternoon as the first flurries of relief supplies began to arrive. Food kitchens were set up and the distribution of medical supplies began.

Belize is the biggest city in this British colony of about 91,000 Latin Americans and British subjects. Well-off the tourist beat, it depends to a great extent on its lumber and citrus trade.

Epidemics of disease were feared, and J. W. Macmillan, minister of health, education and housing, issued an urgent appeal for drinking water, medical supplies, clothing and shelter.

Fast evacuation of residents kept the number of casualties down. Some fled to the airport seven miles outside Belize while others took refuge in schools and other public buildings.

Sauce for the Goose

MR. GEORGE HEES, Canada's minister of trade and commerce, has told our neighbors how they should do business with this country. His advice, excellent as it seems in some particulars, appears to be strictly for export.

Any similarity between what Mr. Hees preached to the American trade convention in New York the other day and what the Canadian government itself does on trade is purely accidental.

Mr. Hees protests vigorously—and quite properly—against the "buy American" act passed in California which prevents Canadian equipment firms from selling component parts to that state's aircraft industry.

Fine. But how does this square with the Conservative government's philosophy favoring a tariff not only on foreign goods competing against those already made in this country, but against any which a minister might arbitrarily say is of a class or kind that could be made in Canada?

Mr. Hees advises our neighbors to avoid restrictions on Canada's ability to compete for sales in the United States on a fair basis.

Again fine. But what, for instance, would the Japanese, our growing customers, have to say about this? How will they balance Canada's demands for the ability to compete on a fair basis in the United States with the "voluntary" quotas Canada forces Japan to accept on exports to Canada?

Mr. Hees urges production of more component parts in Canadian plants by United States subsidiaries assembling products in Canada. This is highly desirable to Canada, but United States subsidiaries assembling products in Canada are operating in Canada to make money. If they can make more by importing components from main plants in the United States, is a plea going to change their procedure?

Mr. Hees, recognizing the critical importance of the American market to Canadian exports, is taking a natural course in advocating as free entry as possible of our goods to the United States. He is justified also in pleading for American action to facilitate fair competition for Canadian goods in the world market.

The arguments he advances, nevertheless, come strangely from a leading figure in a Canadian government which has done much to raise fences against other nations trying to sell in Canada.

He can't argue, of course, that Canadian-American trade should be viewed in a different light from either's trade with other nations because each is the other's best customer.

But on matters of principle Mr. Hees must remember that what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. The Diefenbaker trade record makes a poor pulp from which to preach to the Americans.

Not to Wither on the Vine

CONSTRUCTION OF A MODERN fireproof wing on the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria as a centennial project in 1958 was one of the greatest events ever to befall the institution. With the original Spencer mansion, and the later Ker Gallery addition, the centre now ranks fourth in Canada—an excellent achievement for a community of this size.

But the centennial wing was not an unmitigated blessing. For with its splendid amenities came increased operational costs. Taxes on the property have risen from about $700 to nearly $2,800 in the past three years. Expenses of lighting, heating, and other services have likewise been increased. The growing value and community use of the premises make these costs well worth while—but the costs must still be met. And that is the major problem which now faces the Art Gallery.

While the deficit of some $4,000 resulting from last year's operations is modest in comparison with the financial difficulties of many other galleries, and not overwhelming in view of the total budget of about $27,000, it is nevertheless a serious load for the Gallery to carry.

The art classes for adults and children, the greatly improved series of exhibits, the lectures and other functions have made the institution an invaluable part of the community's life. With the demand for such services increasing each year, the Gallery directors have no wish to curtail their programs and deprive the public of what it wants. But to carry on adequately there must be revenue to meet the rising costs.

The Gallery's membership, its Women's Committee, its subscribers, its generous donors, and cultural foundations, all contribute heavily to the running expenses. Its local fund-raising activities are many. But—as with all similar institutions—there must be public support as well.

The provincial government at present contributes $1,500 a year to help support the children's art classes at the Gallery. Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt make annual grants of $1,000, $950 and $500 respectively. The city this year has made a grant of $2,960 which is $520 less than last year, and collects civic and school taxes amounting to $2,792 which almost entirely cancel out the grant.

This situation is in contrast to many eastern cities where regular civic grants to art galleries may run from $15,000 to $40,000 a year plus additional aid. It is the local Gallery's hope that a better governmental realization of the value of this going concern will result in a more realistic attitude on grants.

The Gallery serves the whole of Greater Victoria. The community should not let so valuable an institution—and a centennial memorial at that—starve for lack of support.

The All-Encompassing Parties

CONVENTION GATHERINGS across Canada are settling the CCF and labor teams into their New Democratic Party harness with a little bucking and kicking here and there but a general intention to make the team pull together.

In selecting Mr. Robert Strachan as leader of the British Columbia branch of the party, the members have paid a tribute to his past work as leader of the opposition in the legislature. They have also given him the job of upholding socialist principles against a government of the far right which has swung to socialist measures in a bid for public favor. That will be no light task.

It has been the misfortune of the socialist party in Canada that Canadians approve many of their practical ideas but reject their underlying philosophy. Much of the social welfare legislation in this country was originally proposed by Mr. J. S. Woodsworth and other CCF leaders—but implemented by other parties when the time was ripe. The old age pension is a case in point.

Many of the CCF's ideas have been impractical. The basic problem of the CCF—as it will be of the new organization—is that it advocates socialism in a country still overwhelmingly in favor of free enterprise, although the public welcomes social measures based on the profits of that enterprise.

Unlike the Social Credit Party, the CCF has always made it plain where it stands on public issues, unpopular though the stand might be. Social Credit originally denoted Major Douglas' far-fetched financial theories. Later it stood for a far-right bastion against socialism. Now, in British Columbia, it has nationalized the largest utility in the province, initiated a government-owned ferry service and plunged ever deeper into the hydro-power and railway industries. What it now stands for is a day-to-day thing—a situation which last week's Social Credit convention, held incidentally in Vancouver with the NDP gathering, did nothing to clarify.

The New Democratic Party seeks to gather all sections of the voting public into its ranks; the Social Credit Party seeks to encompass all types of legislation from far left to far right. Between them stands the Liberal party, whose national leader has been emphasizing lately the need for responsibility in public affairs. If this means an end to give-aways and reckless promises it will command considerable public support.

FROM BEN TRE, KIEN HOA, VIETNAM

Now You See What Our Kien Hoa Night Life Is Like

By JOSEPH ALSOP

In the soft, warm darkness, the flooded rice paddies which now flank the road palely reflect the stars. Just ahead, quite suddenly, looms a dark mass blocking the narrow way—a felled tree whose leaves shelter a whole bright secondary firmament of fireflies. As the patrol grinds to an abrupt halt, a burst of rifle fire comes from the clump of trees off to the left. One of the ancient armored cars—battered left-overs from the Malayan fighting—coughs an angry answer. We have run into the classical combination of a road-block and an ambush. But the Communist force is evidently very small, for no fire is returned after the first fire from the armored car's guns tears into the tree clump.

Alsop

With the swift, silent efficiency born of long practice, half the men of the patrol fan out on either side of the road. The rest attack the road block, chopping the tree into sections which are quickly pushed aside. Yet the interruption costs us over 15 minutes, and this much annoys the patrol leader, Lt. Col. Pham Ngoc Thao.

Nothing further happens for another six or seven kilometers, and so we reach the outskirts of the beleaguered district centre of Mo Cay. Sending a radio message to the district chief to name a rendezvous, Col. Thao takes the patrol down a twisting side road.

Trifling Affairs

Here, in quick succession, three more roadblocks appear. All are trifling affairs of hastily cut branches. One is no more than three long sticks tied to form a tripod, supporting a bouquet of palm fronds. But each must be carefully surveyed before it can be kicked aside, for fear of mines. It is as well there are no ambushes here, for the dense plantations of sugar cane crowd the road.

They must be running short of munitions, for the moment," says Col. Thao cheerily, as the tripod-bouquet contraption is safely removed. "At least one of these last three blocks really ought to have had a mine in it, according to the rules."

One Consolation

"We have not seen the end of this either," says Col. Thao, who is also the chief of Kien Hoa province and has almost too much experience. "But there is one consolation. If the enemy had not lost command of the manpower in the villages, we should not just be faced with felled trees. Deep ditches would be the problem, as in the old days."

It is 9:45 p.m. when the patrol rolls forward again. But only two kilometers further down the road the colonel's foresight is confirmed. There is another dark mass blocking the way, and another short exchange of fire. But this time, two trees are down; and beyond the second tree, several yards of road surface are covered with hummocks of mud, any one of which may conceal a mine.

This time it takes close to a half-hour to clear the road; so it is getting onto 10:30 p.m. when we move forward again.

Nothing further happens for another six or seven kilometers, and so we reach the outskirts of the beleaguered district centre of Mo Cay. Sending a radio message to the district chief to name a rendezvous, Col. Thao takes the patrol down a twisting side road.

Homeward Bound

Half of our 60 men are left, to strengthen the district's forces against anything the rest of the night may bring. And so we turn homewards.

Just beyond the outskirts of Mo Cay town, two ridges of mud have been shoveled onto the road. But they offer no real obstacle and they provide the first seen target; for two men are still heaping up the second ridge when the patrol rolls down upon them. We fire.

that the house belongs to the elder of a large clan which strongly supports the Communists.

At first, the only response to the colonel's heavy knocking is the loud, complacent, mechanical ticking of a clock. Then the clan elder appears, and vaguely assures the colonel the Communists long ago left that vicinity.

Through small, rich fields of varied crops, fresh smelling from the first dew and beautiful under the crescent moon as magic gardens, the colonel leads the way on foot to another little house. The same performance is repeated. Turning back again, Col. Thao explains:

"Now I am sure the enemy is in this neighborhood tonight, probably in small force across that canal there. What the people of this clan say, you can take in reverse. And if the men across the canal see me visiting their friends at night, they will soon begin to think their friends are unfriendly after all. So we will kill two birds with one stone."

At the rendezvous, the hard-bitten young lieutenant commanding Mo Cay district greets Col. Thao with a stiff salute and a grin. He had come because the district chief foresaw trouble tonight and asked for support.

Tricky War

In this war of tricks and dodges, one Communist trick is breaking bridges by sending downstream heavy rafts of coconut logs buoyed with banana stems. Our presence in the district cannot absolutely have stopped the work on such a raft in some dark inlet flickeringly lit by torches, which has been reported by peasant informers. But the patrol, the colonel feels sure, has slowed the work by discouraging tonight's forced recruiting of peasant manpower.

"So we shall get the raft ourselves," says the colonel cheerfully. "That way, this fort's stockpile will be strengthened with the logs which cost the Communists either a lot of money or a lot of ill will from the peasants whose trees they cut down."

After midnight we come to the ferry over the wide river that divides Mo Cay from Ben Tre. As the little ferry boat moves out over the water, the colonel stretches and yawns, remarking: "Not a bad patrol and not a very good one. Just average, so now you see what our Kien Hoa night life is like."

We'll Have a Perpetual Source of Trouble on Our Hands

From the address delivered by Prof. Roger J. Bishop, head of the English Department, Victoria College, to the recent annual assembly of the student body.

IN every intellectual area there should be no peace on a university campus. For a good university—and a good university is, let me remind you, but the sum of its faculty and its students—is in a perpetual state of war. For there every individual should be warring against his own ignorance, against the ignorance of his society, against the complacency of his traditions, should be dedicated always to finding out new truth, or better ways of doing things.

Make no mistake about it. In building a university in Victoria, Victoria citizens—if that university does its proper work or is permitted to—are going to have a perpetual source of trouble on their hands. I know some of them are resting in the happy delusion that they have founded a new industry, where students rather than paper will be processed, a Sidney Roofing of the mental world so to speak, which will attract X millions of dollars to the city and whose only activity will be to expand payrolls and shower prosperity.

I think they should be warned. To have a university in our midst is to place ourselves in the perilous condition of the Trojans dragging the Greek horse full of enemies within the walls of their city.

Here we have been for a hundred years, as all Canada knows, resting untroubled in Lotus land and now we are building a university. We are building an institution filled with warriors armed to make attacks on complacency, to make attacks on our most cherished notions.

What will we do for example when in response to our claim that Victoria has, year-round, the finest and healthiest climate in the world some mad statistician emerges from his lab to prove conclusively that Topinambo in Oriente Province in Brazil has a better?

Or what will we do if some eccentric emerges from his cloister to inform us that the first end of man is not to guard, to sunbathe, to travel or to hunt and fish, but to love God and cherish our neighbor to the exclusion of these things?

Or to tell us that we are so fat and complacent, so rich and low taxed, so over-fed and underworked that in 50 years the Russians will inevitably beat us? Will we demand that these men be fired?

I say nothing of those who, prone to uncomformity on such issues as Berlin, or Laos, or Congo. Everybody in Victoria knows that they are not nearly so important.

Citizens who have a university in their midst are in danger of spiritual radiation hazards just as surely as citizens who live near an atomic plant are in danger of physical radiation hazards.

I think we should be warned. I think we should clear our minds of this cant that a university is a peaceful place of beautiful buildings and lovely grounds, and face it for what it is: A wicked old wolf that has already devoured our grandmother complacency and is just waiting for our Little Red Riding Hoods of naivety to reach 18 and stroll into its jaws under the delusion that they will be allowed out without being so intellectually devoured that their parents will never know them again.

I hate to distress my fellow citizens. But as a good Victorian I feel it my duty to warn them that if they are determined to have a great university in Victoria they must prepare themselves to give over their delusion that campuses and buildings are the whole necessary ingredients in the composition of a university.

Instead they must look forward, indeed welcome, seek to bring in at whatever price is necessary such a collection of egg-heads (cranks, I believe, is the term used by those over 70) as this "little bit of old England" has never seen before.

And they must be prepared to privilege these cranks in their lunatic thinking, and in what is worse, in their speaking of our accepted mores.

I remember an old friend of mine going over to Denmark to attend an international church convention some years back. She was a good Christian of the non-smoking, non-drinking permission. I remember the absolute horror in her voice when she told me on her return of the first church luncheon she attended in Copenhagen.

The beverage served was beer. And at the end of the meal all the ladies present lit up cigars.

All of which left her pondering on the question: What is a Christian?

She had, so to speak, had a real university experience. She had her simple assumptions abruptly juxtaposed with a different set of ideas. She was faced with new questions to which she had to find an answer.

We cannot find the right or wrong in our position unless systematically we analyze that position and the position of others. If as well as giving money and buildings Victoria will exercise such tolerance, it can have a great university. Otherwise it will simply have a so-called institution of higher learning conferring degrees, degrees that merely certify that students have survived four whole years of sleep teaching. There is a vast difference between having the mechanics of a university and being a university.

As Our Readers See It

Park or Front Lawn?

I think if we try to visualize the form Victoria should take, then the problem concerning high-rise apartments would be resolved.

This city must be among the last in North America that has some charm about it. As industry dwindles, tourism, cultural activities, music and educational facilities assume greater importance in our economy.

If Victorians do not appreciate Beacon Hill Park, the investor does. He knows that extra money can be set upon an apartment that overlooks Beacon Hill Park. Recently while walking through this lovely park, I chanced to look up and around me. One building broke the skyline—the first high-rise apartment on Douglas Street. Let this trend continue and our park will be no more than a front lawn for apartment blocks.

The Voice of Reason

Judging from his remarks, Mr. McCloy's attitude to world peace seems to be completely negative. He made no concrete suggestion of a way to achieve peace. Surely it is not impossible to find some method of arbitrating international disputes. There is no doubt that any war in the future would be a nuclear war, no matter what is said and done.

Is it beyond the intelligence of men to find some alternative to war? What, after all, is war? Isn't it the use of a club or an atomic bomb—they are both weapons—in order to beat people into submission? Our only difference from the club-wielding cave-man is that we have more horrible and deadly weapons. The pattern of our thinking is the same.

It should be quite simple to have all international disputes arbitrated by the United Nations, and all countries in the world given the right to their own way of life provided they do not interfere with any other country. With laws governing these matters, world courts, and an effective international police force, war would be extremely unlikely. However, I am aware that this would be very difficult to bring about because men think with their emotions and use reason only when they have to.

Perhaps the Voice of Women will bring a breath of reason to the matter. If so, I hope the voice is shouted from the house tops until men listen and follow.

A WOMAN.

Exporting Jobs?

If John Diefenbaker and his Conservative government can not arrange better arguments than the one he announced from Japan which allows non-immigrants to be admitted to Canada for periods of three years and limited numbers to be given permanent admission to work in Japanese financed enterprises in Canada, he had better come home, the quicker the better.

Not only is the Diefenbaker government standing idly by while our iron and copper ore along with our round logs are being exported in ever increasing volume in the largest bulk cargo ships in the world (80,000 tons) but John is now going to export our jobs too.

John Diefenbaker's time would be better spent at home discussing our unemployment problem instead of trying to solve Japan's.

... REPORTING

OTTAWA—Out of the Conservative convention at Toronto last week came a new premier for Ontario and a couple of new players on the national political stage.

Premier at 44 of the richest and most populous province, John P. Robarts may now point himself towards even higher office. If his record as premier and provincial Tory party leader impresses the country, he will find himself in that select list of persons mentioned when politicians discuss who might succeed John Diefenbaker.

Neither Robarts nor his even younger opponent for the Ontario Conservative leadership, Robert Macaulay, had any national prestige. As Premier Leslie Frost's education minister and his energy resources minister they were virtually unknown outside Ontario. The convention changed that and opened new opportunities to both of them.

Macaulay, 40, is the man who would have gotten my vote had I been a delegate. I have been impressed by the breadth of his knowledge and by his awareness that a party 18 years in office needs a stocktaking of what it has to offer. A political party can run out of ideas and lose supporters—as a store with insufficient merchandise loses customers. Such a party has a choice between the opportunism of grabbing at passing ideas in the hope they will be politically popular and a rethinking of its position from basic principles and in accord with modern values.

Macaulay wanted to do the latter. Whether Robarts sees a need for his party to undergo this kind of dress-restructuring is not clear, but three things stand out: First, he is not noted as an original thinker; second, he was a compromise between Macaulay and the Old Guard, Conservatism of Attorney-General Kelso Roberts; and, thirdly, the Liberals and New Democrats seem to prefer him to Macaulay as a political foe.

My impression is that the majority of the delegates wanted a youthful leader, yet one more in the image of Frost than Macaulay is. Robarts is both these things. But Frost, the kindly, somewhat homespun country lawyer, had an appeal that his reserved young successor cannot quickly match—and an election is due in about 18 months.

Robarts' course is clear—after the bitter rivalries in the midst of amazingly unconservative revelries in Varsity Arena, he must try to pull the party together on a business-as-usual basis. Macaulay's role is less clear. Robarts can scarcely refuse him a cabinet post, but Macaulay's future might be brighter in the House of Commons.

Indications are the federal election will be held in six to eight months. Macaulay might capitalize on his leadership campaign to seek a Commons seat. The Diefenbaker cabinet could well use a minister of his experience, calibre and youth—especially if after the election the cabinet is short one or more of the present three ministers from Toronto.

Macaulay would strengthen the government in an area in which it is weak, the vasty important area of energy resources, the area of hydro development and marketing policy, oil and gas policy, coal, and atomic power. The Columbia River power development fiasco is proof enough of the need.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

By DICK WEST

Chill, Then Twist

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is a certain advantage which a French champagne news conference has over any other type of news conference that I have ever attended.

Even if it doesn't produce any news, it can still be a stimulating experience.

I made this rather obvious discovery recently at a news conference held by Joseph Dargent, a director of the French Champagne Producers' Association, who is in this country making a market survey.

Dargent did not say anything that I would regard as being newsworthy but I certainly did admire his technique.

He held his news conference in the wine cellar of a local hotel. And while we reporters pined him with questions, he pined us with French champagne.

Dargent is what I would call a versatile man. He has a doctor of law degree, he holds the American Medal of Freedom, he has eight children and he can open a champagne bottle without popping the cork.

Asked to explain the cork trick, he said the bottle must first be chilled to the correct temperature. Then you hold the cork and twist the bottle, rather than vice versa.

This enables you to balance the pressure of the gas with the pressure of the cork so that neither noise nor liquid escapes. Dargent frowns on the standard U.S. method, which is to hold the bottle between the knees and force out the cork with a boy scout knife.

"The pop is rather popular," Dargent conceded, "but we in French champagne think it's a pity to lose so much good wine."

So saying, he opened another bottle in eerie silence and we all moved on to the next lesson, which concerned taxes.

Dargent said his group was disturbed by the fact that the U.S. tax on sparkling wine was about four times higher than the levy on still wine. He said this was tantamount to taxing bubbles.

While we were writing this down, a hotel waiter took over the bottle opening chore. It popped, but Dargent maintained his composure.

He told us that it takes three to five years to make champagne, which is why it is so expensive; that the vintage champagne years, for no apparent reason, usually are odd-numbered; and that champagne keeps best in a 46-degree temperature.

One of the journalists sought to needle Dargent a bit by recalling that the gold medal at the 1889 exposition in Paris was awarded to a champagne produced in upstate New York.

"Which was a great mistake on our part," Dargent suavely replied.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Plants That Resist Sea Breezes

There are certain plants eminently suited by constitution and habit to gardens open to sea winds and spray.

An open garden calls for plants of dwarf stature, or of such twiggy habit that wind will pass over or through them without damage.

First the hedges come to mind, and indeed a complete seaside garden could be made of them.

Varieties to bloom each month of the year are available, and bulbs to give short-stemmed flowers in spring and in fall would add to the scheme and remain for years without needing attention.

WEATHER SUITABLE

Winter crocuses and snowdrops among the winter blooming heathers; chionodoxa (Glory-of-the-snow), puschkinia and the spring crocuses for later; fall crocuses and the yellow sternerbergias would complete a picture hard to beat for all year satisfaction.

Some gardeners may consider this too monotonous, and for them are the grey-leaved shrubby plants which seem to thrive under tidewater condition.

Rosemary, whose botanical name of rosmarinus means literally spray-of-the-sea, makes a delightful point of interest with its aromatic grey-green leaves (used in cooking) and myriads of small lavender-colored flowers in May. These shrubs should be kept to a maximum height of three feet by pruning every year after flowering.

Santolina, incana forms a low, dense mound of silvery grey all year, and repays a light clipping in early spring. Lavender in a low hedge will provide both foliage and flower interest. Here again, annual clipping after flowering is needed to maintain a dense shrub.

COLOR VARIETIES

Other grey foliaged shrubby plants are the Jerusalem-sage (phlomis fruticosa) seldom seen though most attractive for leaves and its whorls of yellow flowers in summer only; and Perovskia atriplicifolia, a taller shrub which I have seen only once and have not yet been able to get.

Taller shrubs which lose their leaves in winter but will add much to spring and summer enjoyment are tamarix in three varieties, all with pink flowers; laburnum, lovely in spring and for summer shade; and a whole host of brooms ranging from prostrate species for rock crevices to the taller, summer Spartium junceum. The host of available colors, from white to the bicolor pinks and reds, have not been used nearly enough in local seaside gardens.

N.Y. EXPERT SAYS:

'Upwards of $50' BCE Share Value

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Power Corporation says a New York management firm has appraised the value of the corporation's shares at "upwards of $50."

The former parent of the recently-expropriated B.C. Electric Company is seeking a flat from the Social Credit government for permission to sue. As former holder of all BCE common stock the corporation wants $225,000,000 instead of the $111,000,000 it received from the government in the takeover. The government offered $38 a share.

In a letter to the corporation's shareholders, Chairman A. Bruce Robertson says the corporation is planning "other legal steps" to obtain a better price. He did not elaborate on the "other legal steps."

At the same time, the letter indicated, the corporation has another problem which it intends to place before the courts.

Some $40,000,000 of BCE debentures are still convertible into common shares of B.C. Power.

If this is true, B.C. Power will be responsible for those conversion rights and must maintain a cash reserve to honor any demand for the shares.

CUT PAYMENT

As a result, the corporation, which planned to distribute $22 to $23 a share of the money it has been paid for the BCE, will only distribute $18 or $19 for the time being.

The government, on takeover of BCE, gave B.C. Power until July 31, 1963, to sell its remaining property.

The corporation engaged Ebasco Services Incorporated of New York to make an evaluation of its assets.

The firm said: "It is our conclusion that a fair value for the BCE common stock as of July 31, 1961, would range upward from $50 a share."

Under the Power Development Act, the government paid B.C. Power about $111,000,000 for its BCE common shares and offered to buy its remaining property for $69,000,000.

Independent Group Seeks Better Deal

VANCOUVER (CP) — An independent group of 20 B.C. Power Corporation shareholders has formed a committee to launch a province-wide drive for a better financial deal in the British Columbia government's takeover of the B.C. Electric.

The Shareholders Committee for Fair Expropriation terms, in a letter to other BCP shareholders sent out Wednesday, urged that they write to their MLAs about the government's expropriation procedure. It urged other shareholders to join.

Second Cut in Month In U.K. Bank Rate

LONDON (AP) — The Bank of England rate, which determines the pattern for interest on loans in the sterling bloc, was cut today by a half per cent—to six from six and one-half per cent.

The rate had been reduced from seven per cent Oct. 5. It was raised to seven per cent from five in July when treasury chief Selwyn Lloyd imposed stringent money policies on Britain in an effort to halt inflation and an increasingly adverse balance of international payments.

The cut was widely forecast and was already discounted in the foreign exchange market and in the short and long-term money markets.

The cut to six and one-half per cent Oct. 5 had intensified instead of curbing London's inflow of money.

With the New York bank rate at only three per cent the reduced London rate may be too high for the dollar without being too high for sterling.

Downward pressure on London interest rates is taken as a sign of returning strength for sterling.

The recent flood into sterling was mainly a reflow of the money which left London in sterling panics between March and July rather than a new abnormal inflow of "hot" money attracted by London's highest interest rates.

Cancer Breakthrough Seen By Scientist Within Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A attended by more than 1,000 medical scientist said today it is highly likely that a major breakthrough in the treatment of cancer will be achieved within the coming year.

The prediction was made by Dr. I. S. Ravdin, of the University of Pennsylvania, at a national cancer conference. He heads a clinical studies panel appointed by the National Cancer Institute to evaluate new drugs for control of cancer.

Ravdin said real progress has been made in cancer research in the past two years, and effective chemical agents already have been found for treatment of special types of cancer.

"Matters have improved in the cancer fight, and we are beginning to see the light," Ravdin told the conference.

Definite proof that certain common types of cancer are "viral in origin" may be obtained "before another year is passed," he said.

"At the same time we may have information on the control of such lesions by chemical agents, which have been under careful scrutiny."

He said it is now certain that "cancer will come under control, just as diabetes did."

"The answer could come next month, next year—or next week," he said.

"It is important that we keep cancer patients alive as long as possible, because we never know when the answer will come, and we are likely to have improvements in therapy before we know the whole nature of the disease."

Ravdin said research to date strongly suggests that "most human cancers are probably due to viruses and the answer in treatment will probably be through a variety of chemical agents."

Alderman Criticizes 'Back-Door' Tactics

Ald. Michael Griffin Wednesday criticized a "back door approach" aimed at forcing Westcott Apartments Ltd. to relocate its projected 12-story apartment building on Douglas overlooking Beacon Hill Park.

The company moved its building site three and a half feet southward in deference to nearby property owners but a letter from the latter's lawyer Edwin Popham said this wasn't enough.

Ald. Griffin said moving the building any further would bring it into conflict with building regulations and block the project altogether.

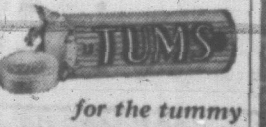

He said two of the objecting property owners, nearest the proposed high rise, had been given special concessions by council so they could build their apartments.

"People who themselves obtained special easing of existing bylaws to enable them to build are hardly in a position to condemn a firm which has not requested at any time one iota of a concession from the city or anyone," said Ald. Griffin.

Nehru Doubts on Ban Cited As U.S. Asks Control Treaty

By JOSEPH MACSWEN
UNITED NATIONS (CP)
The United States said Wednesday night that Prime Minister Nehru of India has himself thrown doubt on the wisdom of an Indian proposal on nuclear tests now before the United Nations political committee.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean, attacking a resolution sponsored by India and five other countries said in the 103-member political committee that a moratorium on tests is useless and what is needed is a treaty with controls to keep the Soviet Union honest.

Dean quoted Nehru as saying Tuesday in Delhi that the Soviet explosion of a super-bomb has shaken the confidence of the world in the promises of a moratorium on tests.

Dean mentioned Nehru after reiterating that the U.S. will reject any voluntary moratorium on nuclear weapons tests on the grounds it would be violated by the Soviet Union, which broke a three-year moratorium by starting its current series. Britain has also rejected the Indian resolution in advance.

They called instead for support for their own resolution which embodies a comprehensive plan under which a test-and inspected to guard against ban treaty would be controlled/cheating.

Alderman Criticizes 'Back-Door' Tactics

Ald. Michael Griffin Wednesday criticized a "back door approach" aimed at forcing Westcott Apartments Ltd. to relocate its projected 12-storey apartment building on Douglas overlooking Beacon Hill Park.

The company moved its building site three and a half feet southward in deference to nearby property owners but a letter from the latter's lawyer Edwin Popham said this wasn't enough.

Ald. Griffin said moving the building any further would bring it into conflict with building regulations and block the project altogether.

He said two of the objecting property owners, nearest the proposed high rise, had been

Russ Take Turn Guarding Nazis

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviet Union took charge of Spandau prison in West Berlin at high noon today, and its troops will spend the next month guarding the last three survivors of the Nazi regime.

Only a half-dozen West Berlin primary school children on their way home to lunch and three curious housewives joined the photographers and reporters who turned out in a cold drizzle to record the change of guard.

At one minute to noon, a Soviet officer and 27 soldiers wearing ankle-length great coats and carrying heavy sub-machine guns across their chests marched through the grey steel gate into the prison courtyard.

The grey door closed briefly. Reporters heard shouted commands. The door opened again and out marched 16 French Gendarmes wearing dark blue uniforms with chalked belts and rifles with whitened slings on their shoulders.

As the grey door closed once more, the Russian officer could be heard starting to set out his guard.

He placed them all around the red-brick prison built to hold 650 men.

Now it holds just three prisoners — Rudolf Hess, 66-year-old former deputy to Adolf Hitler; Albert Speer, 55-year-old Nazi munitions chief, and Baldur Von Schirach, 53-year-old Nazi youth leader.

HESS ILL-TEMPERED

Hess, who probably is insane and certainly lazy and ill-tempered most of the time according to his keepers, was sentenced to life imprisonment by an international military tribunal just 15 years and one month ago.

Speer and Schirach each were sentenced to 20 years imprisonment.

The prisoners are cut off from the world. It is unlikely, for instance, that they are aware of the Soviet-American struggle for Berlin, of the official Soviet designation of Hitler's arch ally turned arch enemy Josef Stalin, or of the explosion of the Russians' 50-plus megaton nuclear bomb.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

When it comes to surveying the pungent world of sport, your agent strives to be the soul of happiness.

Refusing to be unduly nettled by myopic referees, blundering officialdom or slow horses, he does his best to turn the other cheek, much like the evangelist in deepest Africa who is about to be made into the soup of the day.

Recent events dictate, however, that it is time to stop patting small children on the head, to stop smiling as the neighbor's dog lumbers over the prize petunias and to let old ladies negotiate the roundabout (Russian roulette on wheels) by themselves. Today your agent is just plain snarky.

Passions have been aroused by two happenstances... (1) the calibre of the hot water served at Royal Athletic Park; and, (2) the pique of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The items are not necessarily related. Except, that is, for the strong strain of muddled thinking which runs through them.

Were the Beans Introduced to Water?

Some review is needed. The concession service at Royal Athletic is but one of three or four sublet by the city parks committee whose chairman is Alderman Millard Mooney. The others, at popular swimming holes, apparently reap pocketfuls of loot. Royal Athletic, often shunned by thousands of people, is a losing proposition.

The reason hardly rates a Royal Commission inquiry. Anyone attending a spectacle there will testify that the biggest spectacle is the concession operation.

Item: At a Thanksgiving Day soccer game attended by 750 persons, the food bins were boarded up.

Item: At a subsequent Pacific Coast Soccer League match, more than 1,000 patrons challenged the food troughs at half-time. On hand to serve were two employees.

Gamblers who survived the lineup to get coffee report the sugar had only a passing acquaintance with the hot water. Sugar, when available, did not dissolve readily in the tepid stuff. Ed Vignars, president of the Victoria League, calls the service and the product "a disgrace."

Similar compliments have been offered by touring luminaries. It is time, it says here, for Mr. Mooney who does things for car bodies, to do something for human ones who tempt fate at the Royal Athletic calorie counter. Make them serve it hot and light, Millard. Or tell them to go and play in the traffic.

Grade A Merchandise Stays at Home

Less distasteful to the body but disturbing to the soul is the latest move by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Some weeks past the CAHA fathers announced that a Canadian amateur team would be chosen to make an European tour in December.

Ostensibly the CAHA would choose the best team. Among several clubs asked if they were interested was the world champion Trail Smoke Eaters.

The Smokeies, correctly or otherwise, interpreted the oral inquiry as a direct invitation. They accepted. And said so, publicly.

Rising in indignation the CAHA lords turned charitable and bellowed: "Whoa! We didn't ask you to go. We asked if you would be interested in going."

That's not the way we heard it," said Trail, in effect. Unwilling to accept the possibility that there had been a misunderstanding, the CAHA pontifically called for teams to apply, set an Oct. 24 deadline for applications.

Port Arthur Bearcats were announced as winners of the contest and the right to try European culture.

There is no argument that the Bearcats are not worthy contenders. The contention here is that they are not the most worthy contenders.

CAHA In a Huff Over Smokes' Puff

The tipoff that Trail would not be selected came two days before the Oct. 24 deadline.

Said a CAHA official: "It's unfortunate things turned out this way. Trail is loaded. They have the best club—by far—in Canada. But they'll never get the trip now, not after this blowup."

This exercise in clear thinking boggles the imagination. Supposedly if Port Arthur had accepted the inquiry in the same manner as Trail, it, too, would have disqualified itself for creating a disturbance.

Perhaps the incident will serve a useful purpose. Trail or any other team with undisputable credentials, will learn to curtsy at the appropriate moment or bear the consequences.

Until then, or in December at least, Canada will be represented by the second best puck product available. The CAHA, august, lofty but not always rational, says so.

Better Press Aim Of Canadian AAU

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian participation in international meets will be reviewed during the three-day Amateur Athletic Union of Canada annual meeting which opened today. It is the first time the union has met here.

Friday night the provincial government will honor delegates. Mayor Elmer Roper of Edmonton will welcome the 60 AAUC delegates at a luncheon today. It is the first time the union has met here.

Selection of sites for the British Empire Games trials next year and of the 1962 annual convention; affiliations; government assistance for amateur sports; approval of records and the AAUC hall of fame will be studied during the three days. A call for the AAUC to establish a central committee to direct promotion of amateur sports will be made by Manitoba delegates.

Malcolm (Mac) Murray, Manitoba AAU president, says the national association's prestige has been falling steadily in recent years because of the lack of such promotion.

EXTRA RIDER COSTS YANKS

Canada Wins When U.S. Disqualified

NEW YORK (AP)—Canada won the international jumping event in the national horse show Wednesday night after two United States teams were thrown out for using an extra rider.

The event—the first of a three-part low-score team competition—called for each squad to use three riders. The United States and Mexico each used four and when the competition was over Canada, Ireland and Argentina protested.

The U.S. teams had clock-

'BIG THUNDER'—ALIAS JOE STANKA

Familiar figure in Vancouver where he used to appear with Sacramento Solons of Pacific Coast League, righthanded pitcher Joe Stanka has carved quite a place for himself in Japanese baseball with Nankai Hawks. Ball-crazy fans dubbed him

"Big Thunder." Stanka made "coffee-stops" with Chicago Cubs and White Sox before going to Japan two years ago. Wednesday he and the Hawks lost 3-2 to Yomiuri Giants of Tokyo. Victory, Giants' fourth in six games, gave them the Japanese World Series.

Independents on Own—Nanaimo Trims Sailors

Rumors are still bouncing around the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League like a puck on a power play, but it will be business as usual Saturday night.

One of the rumors was that there would be a game in Nanaimo Wednesday night. It turned out to be a fact and Nanaimo jumped into first place by blanking Navy 8-0.

Nanaimo fans apparently did not place much stock in the rumor since only 164 people turned up to watch their club grab a 3-0 first-period lead and then slam home five tallies in a free-wheeling third period.

That left the Coaltown crew one point in front of the independent Athletic Association and set the stage for a clash between the two top clubs at Memorial Arena, Saturday.

SUSPEND OPERATIONS
Lots has been happening behind the scenes this week in the bustling three-city circuit and these things appear certain as the clubs head for their third twin-bill presentation at the arena.

● Officials of Patterson Construction, who earlier agreed to amalgamate with Independent Athletic Association, have decided to suspend operations for one season, leaving Independents to operate on their own as they were at the start of the season.

● Players from the Pats are free to line up with either IAA or Port Alberni.

● Pattersons plan to return to the league next season.

DOUG TO REFEREE
● Doug Anderson and Eddie Dorohy may possibly apply for reinstatement as amateurs before the season is over, but there is no chance that the circuit will risk an "outlaw" tag by taking in the professional stars before they have been cleared in both pro and amateur channels.

Anderson, who first declined to consider joining the Independents but now appears willing to at least discuss the possibility, will be on Memorial Arena ice Saturday, but not as a player. Doug, who didn't agree to terms with the Los Angeles Blades, will work with John Smith, refereeing the game between Independents and Nanaimo at 9 o'clock.

Navy and Port Alberni open the doubleheader at 7:30.

COULTER SIGNED
League president Doug Fletcher affirmed today that the loop would not consider using Dorohy or Anderson until they had obtained status as amateurs.

"Any thought of former professionals playing before they are reinstated is impossible," said Fletcher. "If it does happen, you can expect my immediate resignation."

Bill Jensen, manager of the Pats, confirmed that his club would not be amalgamating with IAA and would try to get some of the players to join Port Alberni, "to help balance the league."

Asked if Pattersons would be back in the loop next season, Jensen replied, "very much so."

Just how the former Pats will deploy their services is still unknown. Goalie George Hall, Orville Coulter and Bob Fowler played with IAA last week, but none turned up at practice Tuesday.

However, Coulter has now signed with IAA and coach Fergus McPherson hopes also to line up Hall, Fowler and Arnold Elliott. The picture should be clearer after an IAA practice tonight when McPherson expects to announce his roster for Saturday. Even if Hall stays with the club, Fergus may follow his plan of alternating goaltenders and start Ron Griffiths between the pipes.

With IAA, winner of two straight, and Nanaimo, owning two victories and a tie in three games, tossing unbeaten records on the line, Saturday's feature tussle promises to be an interesting one.

And further into the future is IAA manager Keith Dorman's plan to sign a new Victoria resident, who, Dorman believes, "could be the best player in the league."

DISTORTION OF VALUES BLAMED FOR SCANDALS

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of Fordham University said Wednesday that college sports scandals resulted from the distortion of values of the role of athletics in education.

"Unless the role of sports in education is a subordinate one, it isn't a genuine one," said the Rev. Laurence J. McGinley, at the annual Grantland Rice Memorial Award luncheon of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood.

Arthur Daley, veteran sports columnist of the New York Times, received the Rice award.

Father McGinley called on sports writers and broadcasters to "find out who has been glorifying sheer success in amateur sports and who has been trying to understand the real place of sports in our colleges and universities and to help America understand it."

Ground jury and bounced both United States teams. That left Canada in first place, Ireland in second and Argentina third.

The result left Ireland ahead in the race for team honors with 27 points, followed by Argentina with 20; Canada with 18; Mexico with 12 and the United States with a large zero.

Earlier, Windsor Castle, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Magid of Mamaroneck, N.Y., the 1958 champion, won his first open jumping class.

With Dave Kelley in the saddle, Windsor Castle was forced into a jump-off after 10 entries had made faultless rounds. The second time around, only Windsor Castle made it.

Grey Aero, owned by Frank Imperatore, of Canonsburg, Pa., was second and Snow Man, owned and ridden by Harry de Layer of St. James, N.Y., finished third.

The results left Grey Aero in the lead for the open jumping title with eight points. Snow Man, the 1958 winner, has seven.

Mahovich Takes Old Rocket Role

Canadiens Finally Beaten; Big M Fires the Big Goal

Frank Mahovich is doing for Toronto Maple Leafs what Maurice "Rocket" Richard used to do so well for Montreal Canadiens—scoring winning goals.

The Leafs' new golden boy, who has scored nothing but game-winners this National Hockey League season, picked up his fourth in eight games Wednesday night.

Big M's goal gave the Leafs a 3-2 victory over Canadiens and snapped the Habs' early-season unbeaten streak at eight games.

Montreal entered the contest with seven wins and one tie—their best start since 1943-44 when they remained undefeated until the 15th game.

GRABS PASS

Toronto was nursing a slim 2-1 lead when Mahovich grabbed a pass from Red Kelly and sank the puck behind goalie Jacques Plante at 1:22 of the third period. The goal offset Marcel Bonin's tally for Montreal with about eight minutes to go in the game.

Mahovich, who for a while last season appeared a cinch to surpass Richard's record of 50 goals in one season, has scored two of his other winning goals against Boston Bruins. The other one beat New York Rangers.

The 23-year-old left winger slumped towards the end of last season and had to settle for 48 goals while Montreal's Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion came on with a late drive and tied the Rocket's record.

83 FOR MAURICE

Richard fired 83 winning goals—a league record—for the Canadiens during his playing days.

The Canadiens-Leafs game, the teams' first meeting this season, produced some outstanding play for a Toronto crowd of 13,601. It was a close one right from the drop of the first puck and the fans got their money's worth as players of both clubs handed out some hefty bodychecks.

The outcome moved the third-place Leafs to within four points of the front-running Canadiens. Montreal has 15 points in nine starts and Toronto has 11 in eight games. The Rangers, idle Wednesday night, are second with 14 points in 12 games.

PROVOST GETS 100TH

Bobby Pulford and Bob Nevin scored Toronto's other goals while Claude Provost got the 100th of his NHL career and set up Bonin for the Canadiens' goals.

Pulford gave the Leafs a 1-0 lead at 9:21 of the first period, beating Plante after taking a pass from linemate Eddie Shack at the Montreal goalmouth.

Provost, a fleet right winger who is off to his best start in seven NHL seasons, tied the score, 1-1, at 6:35 of the second period when he snared his own rebound off the backboards and rifled the puck past Leaf goalie Johnny Bower.

Toronto, however, regained the lead less than three minutes later and held it—Nevin got the go-ahead goal at 9:13 after taking a pass from defenseman Carl Brewer.

HABS MEET BOSTON

After Mahovich's decisive tally, the Canadiens fought back but were thwarted by Bower after Bonin's goal at 11:53 of the third. Bonin scored on an angle shot from about 10 feet out.

Leafs had a margin in play most of the way, outshooting the Habs 33-26.

Canadiens will attempt to regain their winning ways tonight when they play host to Boston in one of the league's two scheduled games. In the other one New York is at Detroit.

Coach Sid Abel of the Red Wings has made some lineup changes for tonight's game in an effort to break the club's slump.

STASIUK PROMOTED

Abel has promoted veteran left winger Vic Stasiuk to the first line with centre Eddie Litzenberger and right winger Gord Howe.

Alex Delvecchio, who played with Howe and Litzenberger through the team's first nine games, was switched to the third unit with rookie Bruce MacGregor and Leo Labine.

The Wings also will have a new face in tonight's lineup. He is Bob Dillabough, called up from Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

Meanwhile, centre Bill Hay, sparkplug of the Chicago Black Hawks, returned to practice after missing eight games with a knee injury.

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous said there was a good chance Hay could start Saturday night at Toronto although he might not be at full strength.

"But even half a Hay can mean a lot to us at this point," said Pilous, whose club has won only one game in 10 starts.

Bucks, Fashoway Roll Right Along

Defending champion Portland Buckaroos are making a successful bid to stay on top of the Western Hockey League.

SEVEN IN ROW

Only Maurice Richard, formerly of the NHL Montreal Canadiens, tops Fashoway's total in pro goal getting. The Rocket had 544 cutters in 18 seasons.

For the Bucks, their Wednesday night victory before 5,640 fans was the seventh in a row.

The home team took a 4-0 lead after two periods, but Gerry Goyer and Danny Belisle scored for Blades to spoil Bruce Gamble's shut-out chances. Bill Saunders added two counters for Portland. Singles went to Gene Achtymchuk, Ron Matthews and Arlo Goodwin.

The eight-team loop takes a bye tonight with Seattle at Vancouver, and Calgary at Edmonton Friday.

CANUCKS CAUGHT LATE

Right winger John Kosianiec gave Stamps their tie with Canucks with a counter at 19:54 of the third during a four-goal comeback. Three of the goals came within five minutes.

Gord Veprava scored first for Calgary. Jim Moro added one and Doug Barkley two.

For Canucks Barry Ross and Dave Duke scored two each while Canucks playing coach Phil Maloney notched the other.

Canucks had the only first-period goal and led 5-1 after two, before the crowd of 2,419. Spoke Comets follow Buckaroos in the Southern Division, then Los Angeles, and San Francisco, the league's two newest entries.

'Beware of Moochers!' Jack Price's Wisdom

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Price, a small, fast-talking man who has won a small fortune with Carry Back, today has some advice for the winner, come Saturday, of the Garden State stakes, the world's richest horse race.

The Garden State for two-year-olds will, if 12 expected candidates go postward, be worth $302,363. Of this, the winner takes down $181,419—or about $1,752 dollars per second.

But the winner, says Price, should cut off his telephone.

take a trip and leave no forwarding address.

The one-time Cleveland manufacturer should know. Price rose to prominence when he won it last year with the scraggly colt called Carry Back, which also went on to win the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness this year.

PITY THE POSTIE

"Until that time," he recalls, "I was just another guy in the racing business. Then the wires started to pour in, the telephone began buzzing and the mailman nearly suffered a broken arches."

The general theme was "please help."

"Mostly it was guys who were short of money," Price grinned. "But there were plenty of others, inventors who claimed they had ideas which would revolutionize industry and wanted a backer. Then there were those I hadn't heard from in years. They told me I had too much money, anyhow, so why not spread it around."

"My advice to the fellow who wins the Garden State is—watch out. You'll be deluged by guys looking to spend your money."

PRESS HARPOONED

The irrepressible Price also had a harpoon to fling at the press box experts who insisted that he campaigned Carry Back too diligently this year. The colt has been to the post a rugged 22 times, winning six big races. He came up lame after the Belmont, in which he lost his bid to capture the triple crown.

"The boys in the press box have been good to me," he said, "but after the Derby and Preakness some writers—who don't have a trainer's license, as far as I know—began to take pot shots at me."

"They said I didn't know how to train a horse and that I was just lucky to win the Derby and Preakness," he added. "Maybe they're right. But all I know is I like to win those big races, even if you need a rugged constitution and a tough hide to put up with all the moochers and second guessers."

COOL $850,000
There's no denying from either of the aforementioned clans that Price certainly has the last laugh.

Carry Back came back to cop the Trenton last Saturday and add $55,000 to his swollen bankroll. That ran the colt's earnings in two years to a cool $851,648.

But don't get the idea that Price is ripe for a "touch."

'Juniors Better Than Old Pros'

VERNON (CP)—One of the National League's hockey greats, Walter Babe Pratt says he has nothing against senior hockey but he believes touring senior clubs are killing Canada's hockey reputation overseas.

In Vernon for the official opening of the Okanagan Junior Amateur Hockey League, the former Toronto, New York and Boston defencesman said Canada shouldn't be represented by a "bunch of has-beens" when it could offer the best junior players in the world.

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association should be sending junior teams overseas to see how the European junior system compares with our own," Pratt told an interviewer.

"I think an all-star junior squad would do a better job than a bunch of old pros."

Commenting on the introduction of junior 'A' hockey to British Columbia, Pratt said it would take the province three to five years to produce a Memorial Cup contender.

He lauded the Okanagan policy of using homebrew talent to get the league underway.

"For one thing you'll never have salary trouble with homebrew juniors, and you'll never have to worry about seeing the same old faces every year."

Pratt said the reincarnation of the now-defunct Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League would greatly depend on the number of players graduating from the junior ranks.

However, he wondered if Okanagan cities could afford to support both.

"If the choice was left to me I would choose junior hockey for the Okanagan because of economic reasons."

"No city in the Okanagan is big enough to provide a living for 15 imported hockey players," he said.

ONE WAY TO END IT

STATEN ISLAND, N.Y. (UPI)—The 77-round bout between Cal McCarthy and Jimmy Reagan in 1888 was called a draw after both fighters bumped heads and knocked each other out.

BANTAM KINGS AGREE TO CLEAR UP PICTURE

LONDON (AP)—Eder Jofre of Brazil and John Caldwell of Ireland agreed to terms Wednesday for a fight in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in January to clear up the world bantamweight championship picture.

Jofre is recognized as world champion by the National Boxing Association of the United States and various federations in Europe.

Caldwell, British bantamweight king, out-pointed Alphonse Halimi of France, in a dull 10-round bout here Tuesday night. Halimi previously was recognized as champion in those parts of the world which did not recognize Jofre.

WINGS GIVING UP?

Howie's Great ... If He Can Hold Temper in Check

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Jack Adams says there's nothing wrong with some good clean fist-swinging fights in the National Hockey League. Besides, he says, fans love them.

The 66-year-old Detroit Red Wing general manager hasn't any time for stick-swinging, spearing and slashing. "But a good bare knuckle fight, well, that's different," he has said on occasions.

It followed that Adams would take a fatherly interest in Howie Young, a burly young defenceman who was a terror in the Western, Quebec and American hockey leagues in a rambunctious three-year period before the Wings got him last season. "The Wings knew he might be tough to handle but, if anyone could do it, Jack Adams was the man."

"He keeps those other players' heads up," Adams enthused during last year's Stanley Cup semi-finals when the Wings knocked off the favored Toronto Maple Leafs. Young kept his temper in check and played sound games.

"His rapid development and fierce, aggressive play was one of the reasons for our making the playoffs and for our fine showing in the cup games," Adams said. "However, he still is not a polished National Leaguer and must work hard to prove himself."

Now, the Wings have gone sour on him and this week put him on waivers. "The kid is mixed up," Adams said. "We've gone along with him as far as we could."

When the news that Young was being put on waivers hit the Detroit newspapers, the Red Wing switchboard started flashing.

"How come?" asked indignant subscribers. "The kid's great; you guys must be out of your minds," was one typical comment.

What happened? "Young got some, chippy penalties this year and, finally, a week ago against Montreal; he got two minors and a misconduct and coach Sid Abel sent him to the dressing room," Red Wing publicity director Elliott Trumbull explained. "Besides, he reported overweight to camp. He wasn't in top condition."

Adams was enthusiastic about the Toronto-born defenceman's play last year. And the first thing Adams did when he reported to Detroit was to get him into his office for some advice.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

NEW YORK—It should be easy for a man to rob a safe he built. In a way, Tom Landry devised the combination and installed the burglar alarms. Yet it was a difficult heist as Dallas beat the New York Giants 17-16, at Yankee Stadium last Sunday. You might explain it as Allie Sherman, the Giant coach, did by pointing out that Dallas made their important third down plays and his side couldn't. But it has to be more than that.

If any one understands the Giants it is Landry. Most of them were there when he was their defensive instructor before he became the head coach at Dallas. They have always been a team that depended on their ability to stop the other people. The defensive unit would hold and the offense would get some points and the defence would hold again.

It had to be all right because they generally won more than their share of National Football League games. But obviously their system demands immediate renovation if they intend to be regarded as contenders in the Eastern Division. Their record this year is deceptive because they have been working against the easy ones in the league. It gets rough from now on because they play Green Bay once and the Eagles and Browns twice in their next seven games.

The way they acted Sunday, they won't be able to handle these clubs. It was supposed to be a soft one because they already had beaten Dallas, 31-10. Some of them offered the old excuse they didn't get up for this. They were beaten because they couldn't handle Eddie Le Baron's passing and the running of J. W. Lockett and Don Perkins.

It could be that they aren't as good as a lot of people think they are. The game followed the exact pattern of the others they played this autumn. They got behind but, instead of putting it out, they were beaten by a 32-yard field goal with only a minute and 23 seconds left on the clock. This is the way they have been doing it across the years. You expect them to do that.

They rely on the foot too much. Pat Summerall kicked three field goals Sunday.

But he had to be perfect for them to win and Sunday he missed two. You're not entitled to win in the league if you only move the ball for one touchdown. The team that attempts to beat the other people with a shoe does it because it isn't moving the ball or throwing it correctly.

They have no secrets from Landry. He made this defensive unit famous. They became the heart of the ball club and they still are.

Provided Philosophy and Pattern

It was Landry who gave them their philosophy of the sport and founded the basic pattern of their toll. Of course, there have been alterations but he also has them measured as 'men. They did fine and they held three times, on the one-foot line and they blocked a punt and hit hard enough to cause fumbles.

Their small defects were obvious to the guy who put them together because he exploited their flaws when his team had to have real estate on the big downs. The Giants still regard him with affectionate wonder. That's his edge. The coach is a careful man and was guarded during the clubhouse interview. But this year he has been partial to a messenger service between the bench and the field. He was sending in plays to Le Baron early in the game but he didn't bother after a while.

"I didn't need to," he said, and this was more than he intended to reveal.

The Giants have missed Frank Gifford, who is in the television business now. He intimidated the other people because he could pass or run. The Cowboys didn't anticipate Bob Galters as a thrower. But the Giants only touchdown was made when Galters flung one to Kyle Rote.

There is no doubt that Sherman is trying to change and go along with the trends. Sometimes the Giants would move out of the T and into the BB, which is a modified variation of the shot-gun. Shot-gun is the single-wing formation with a flanker. The BB is a closer to a short-punt formation.

It has been Sherman's policy to start either Charley Conerly or Ya Ya Tittle at quarterback and go with one of them until he turns cold. But Sunday neither could get warm. Falling awkwardly, Conerly hurt his back during the first sequence of plays at the beginning of the game. Forced to run out of the BB, he was jolted after going nine yards in his ramfreak way.

He came out, stiff-backed and cloudy-brained, and Tittle replaced him. But Tittle couldn't get them going either. The BB is not for frail, elderly parties. It is used to move the quarterback from the blitzing linemen. But he must run a lot to cause the formation to be effective. Neither can take this continuous kind of a beating.

You must make the big third down plays, as Sherman said, or you lose. But let me Landry's knowledge of them had something to do with it. The Cowboys probably would have lost under another coach. He built the safe he cracked.

DISPLACED as regular quarterback with St. Louis Cardinals is former Montreal star Sam Etcheverry. The Rifle will take a back seat to former Notre Dame ace Ralph Guglielmi.

The three seemingly unrelated factors—plus the ingenuity of Dr. James Naismith, a native of Almonte, Ont.—were brought together here 70 years ago and basketball was born.

Parker's Fumble Worth Something

REGINA (CP)—Jackie Parker, quarterback with Edmonton Eskimos, had his Western Football Conference leading point total increased by one. Bill Hawrylak of Regina, official WFC statistician, announced Parker received credit for Eskimos' last point in their 20-8 win over Calgary Stampeders Monday. The point had at first been credited to the Edmonton team.

Edmonton got the point after Parker fumbled into the end zone at the Stampeders goal line and the Calgary player recovering was roused. Parker's point total now is 99, 22 points better than Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Gerry James in second place.

Yo-Yo System No Good; Pop Benches His Rifle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ralph Guglielmi, a Washington Redskins castoff, has displaced Sam Etcheverry, nine-year veteran of Canadian pro football, as the No. 1 quarterback of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy made it official Tuesday, but he added the Cardinals have not given up on Etcheverry and he could regain the job at any time.

"The two quarterbacks are on a par practically," Ivy said, "but we can't keep yoyoing our quarterbacks in and out because then they'll start pressing in order to look good and we would have them trying for the long 'bomb' on every pass."

"So we will stay with Ralph as long as he goes well."

"If he has a real bad time out there then it becomes a different situation and Etcheverry will be used without any qualms on our part."

ETCHEVERRY UNHAPPY

Etcheverry, who started for Montreal Alouettes for nine seasons prior to joining the Cardinals last winter, said this is the first time he had been forced to sit on the bench in 10 years as a pro.

He isn't happy about the situation, but he said:

"What can one say? I'm in top condition, my arm feels great and I'm confident, I can handle the job when I get my next chance."

The Cardinals are in fifth place in the NFL's eastern division with a 3-4 won-lost record.

The Cardinals' managing director, Walter Wolfner, took the occasion to give Ivy a vote of confidence.

Wolfner praised Ivy as a "great teacher," and said: "If I didn't believe in the coach he would have been fired already. I've never hesitated along those lines."

Ivy's contract expires this year, his fourth as coach of St. Louis.

Colts, Bears To Face Paul

CHICAGO (AP)—Star half-back Paul Hornung of Green Bay Packers, regardless of results of a new physical examination for military service, will be able to play the next two Sundays against Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Headquarters of the 5th Army said that although Hornung is expected to leave the U.S. Navy hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., today he would not be called to military service in any event until Nov. 4.

Hornung went into the hospital for a special examination

HAMILTON (CP)—Coach Jim Trimble plans to rest some of his regulars and recent crimples when the Tiger-Cats meet the Alouettes in Montreal Saturday.

The game means nothing to either club. Hamilton has clinched first place and the Als are firmly in the Eastern Football Conference basement, out of the playoffs.

Quarterback Bernie Faloney and middle guard Vince Scott will sit out the game. Frank Cosentino will start in Faloney's place with Tom Dublin, ski standing by.

Chualo Falls to 10th In Latest Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight George Chualo of Toronto, who last month lost a fight to Joe Erskine of Wales on a foul, has been dropped two notches to 10th place in the latest Ring Magazine boxing ratings.

Chualo had been in eighth position among challengers for Floyd Patterson's world crown for some time. Bob Cleroux of Montreal, Canadian heavyweight king, retained his sixth place in the rankings, announced today.

Among those who moved up in the ratings was Sugar Ray Robinson, who beat Denny Moyer of Portland in a comeback drive for a shot at the world middleweight title. The former 160-pound champion moved to fourth from fifth spot. Joe Brown, world lightweight champion, was named boxer of the month.

'WHITE MAN SUPERIOR' AIM OF ALABAMA STUDY

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The state of Alabama has hired a scientist and a lawyer to try to prove, the lawyer says, that white persons are superior to Negroes intellectually.

The Montgomery Advertiser reported this approach to the race issue today.

The newspaper quoted lawyer Ralph Smith of Montgomery, retained by Governor John Patterson to represent him in racial litigation, as giving these details of the arrangement: Smith, with Patterson's approval, entered into an agreement last February with Dr. Wesley Critz George, retired member of the University of North Carolina school of medicine, to make a detailed study of anthropological differences between the races.

A reporter made the matter public after noticing a $3,000 payment to George from the governor's emergency fund.

Smith said he and Patterson felt that "we should explore every avenue in our efforts to preserve racial segregation."

BY NUCLEAR SCIENTIST

Death-Ray Bomb Value Queried

WASHINGTON (CP)—Experiments with a chimpanzee have cast doubts on the tactical value of a so-called "death ray" or neutron bomb now reported to be getting high priority in U.S. government nuclear experiments.

Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a nuclear scientist and former consultant to the U.S. defense department, said experiments have shown it takes about 10,000 rems—a unit of radiation—to kill a chimpanzee in one hour. The biological makeup of the chimp is considered somewhat similar to that of man.

The neutron bomb, under its latest conception, might bombard the enemy on the field with about 500 rems in a radius of a mile or so if the bomb was detonated at a height of about 1,000 feet, Lapp estimated in an interview.

All these figures are tentative because the bomb is still a matter of theory. Lapp said no one has ever built the bomb and no one has yet invented the small chemical trigger that would be required to explode the weapon.

"With a dosage of 500 rems, it would take several weeks for about one-half the people in the target area to die.

"The military people do not consider this a tactical death."

FEARS RUSSIANS AHEAD

Senator Thomas Dodd, Connecticut Democrat, has urged President Kennedy to make every effort to convert the neutron bomb or so-called silent death ray concept into a practical reality. Dodd's fear is that the Russians may already be working on this bomb and thus may gain a great tactical advantage.

Lapp, now an official of a science corporation, said that despite all the talk of a silent ray that would kill humans and have buildings intact, the neutron bomb would have some initial blast effect. But if it was exploded high enough, say at 1,000 feet, the blast would leave structures undamaged.

Peace Plea By Scientists

GENEVA (AP)—Hundreds of nuclear scientists from countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain appealed Wednesday for East-West agreement on Berlin, total disarmament and a ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Some 800 scientists from 20 countries made the plea in a petition to the heads of government of Britain, the United States, France and the Soviet Union.

Among the signers were Nobel Prize winners I. E. Tamm, of Russia; C. P. Powell, of Britain, and Dr. Victor F. Weisskopf, director-general of the 14-nation European Organization for Nuclear Research. No Canadian scientists were among the petition signers.

Fallout: A Definite But Small Hazard

What effect might today's fallout from Soviet bomb testing have on children yet unborn? Scientists aren't agreed on the extent of the danger, though most geneticists consider some harm likely. This is the second of three articles on fallout.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest toll from Russia's monster 50-megaton-plus H-bomb could be among tomorrow's children.

Its radioactive fallout might doom hundreds or even thousands of the world's children—over a number of future generations—to early death or physical or mental defects from hereditary damage.

Almost all geneticists assume that any increase in radiation could cause genetic damage to some people.

Most think the effect from the present fallout—and that added now by the Soviets—will be a very slight fraction of 1 per cent increase over the number of children now born with genetic defects. The increase could be so slight as not to be detectable.

But with 100,000,000 children born in the world each year, even a slight increase in the rate of defective births could mean sizeable numbers of damaged or stillborn humans in 50 to 100 years or more.

OFFERS ESTIMATE

Dr. Linus Pauling, famous California Institute of Technology chemist, and a crusader against bomb testing, does estimate a number:

From a 50-megaton bomb alone, 40,000 infants born with physical or mental defects in the next few generations throughout the world, he says. And 400,000 more genetically injured during the next 6,000 years through radioactive Carbon-14 created by such a bomb.

Other scientists disagree with his estimate, particularly that dealing with Carbon-14.

The difficulty in any estimate is that "some crucial facts are not known about human genes, produced in the sex glands, which determine the inherited characteristics that babies will have."

It is known that radiation can alter or mutate genes, and that most mutations are harmful.

RESISTANCE NOT KNOWN

It is not known if genes can resist tiny amounts of radiation such as represented by fallout atoms which enter sex glands or genes.

All the evidence from experiments with animals, fruit flies, and single cells indicate there is no threshold or tolerable level.

Nuclear Deterrent Urged Upon Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain should have its own nuclear deterrent in case it finds itself in disagreement with the United States and has to act on its own. Air Marshal Sir Dermot Boyle said Wednesday in a speech.

The former British chief of air staff said he meant no disrespect to the U.S. and he fully realized how much the Thus, geneticists assume any increase in radiation is potentially harmful.

One encouraging note, from mouse experiments, is that chronic exposure to a low dose of radiation, 10 roentgens a day, given over a number of days produces fewer mutations than an equal total dose given all at once. Exposure of sex glands to fallout atoms can be chronic or long-lasting, and at an almost infinitesimally small dose.

Many experts assume that natural background radiation has always been causing some of the genetic mutations to which the human race is subject. Heat and chemicals are more powerful causes of genetic changes.

A National Academy of Sciences committee has estimated 2,000,000,000 children will be born in the world during the next 30 years, and that some 4,000,000 of them would possess tangible genetic effects from natural or spontaneous causes.

SUGGEST OTHER CAUSE

Different authorities estimate 2 to 10 per cent of such genetic defects might be due to natural background radiation.

So, even a slight increase in radioactivity produced by bomb tests could increase this rate of genetic mutations. The experts all agree the increase would not be enough to cause any worry about the future of the human race by any means.

Some scientists say that through modern medicine and humanitarian treatment, science is keeping alive people ill or weak because of defective genes and the fact they can have children may result in passing along more defective genes than would ever result from fallout radiation.

A consensus of the experts: Bomb testing represents a definite but small hazard to human posterity.

Friday: Fallout's bad actors.

Pie, Cake 'Dissipation'

If you are the average person, of sedentary habits or occupation, the chances are that you eat about 75 per cent more carbohydrate foods than are compatible with your good health and your desire to feel and look young again!

I enjoy a wedge of pie, a slice of cake, a piece of candy or a plate of spaghetti as well as anything.

But I recognize these artificial foods for what they really are—dissipations, not nutrition.

I realize these heavy starches and sugars are life shorteners, not youth preservatives.

Fall From Grace
Life would be pretty dull if we always did what we should. Of course, you would be far better off if you never let another bit of rich, starchy, artificial food pass your lips.

But you are going to fall from grace anyway—even as I sometimes do myself. And it's a whole lot better for your psychology—to say nothing of your will power—if you are given a small margin for "nutritional sinning!" But you must keep it the margin, and not your mainstay.

There is a proper time to sin on sugars and starches, but that time is not at your regular mealtime.

If you must have a piece of candy, or a slice of cake, by all means have it!

Don't Spoil Meal
But far enough away from the next meal so you don't take the edge off your appetite for the youth-protecting protein foods.

Protein is a complete food; that is, you could live long and vigorously on an exclusive diet of protein foods.

This is not true of carbohydrates. A great number of war prisoners who died in orental prison camps during the Second World War perished because they starved to death on an all-carbohydrate diet.

Not only do high-starch meals overload the stomach and place an unnecessary strain on the heart, they are also predisposing factors in many ailments and serious diseases that appear in later years.

Protein, Faster
Any textbooks on physiology will tell you that protein burns with a hotter flame, and produces more heat and energy than carbohydrates or fats.

You get some sugars in every food you eat. Even the all-meat diet of the Eskimo contains 15 per cent sugars.

Plants are nature's sugar manufacturers, and these energy sugars are passed on to the animals, fowl and sea life that feed upon them.

When you eat enough proteins you need never worry about getting enough carbohydrates. Your big worry should be not to eat too much carbohydrates.

High blood pressure has increased 250 per cent during the past 10 years. Anaemia and appendicitis have also increased at an appalling rate.

Primitives Safer
These are diseases wholly unknown among primitive peoples who use only unrefined grains rich in all the vitamins of the B-complex group.

Heavy starch-eaters are more susceptible to sinus and respiratory infections than are those who will limit their carbohydrate intake to the sugars and starches found in natural foods (fruits, vegetables, milk and whole grains) and their meals around high proteins.

Constipation, a common symptom of digestive disorders, is another universal ailment that can be traced directly to high-starch food habits.

Car Drivers Warned
The same holds true for gas in the intestines and belching, which are uncomfortable manifestations of undigested starches fermenting in the digestive tract.

The United States National Safety Council warns automobile drivers against overeating on starches before and during trips.

That stuffy feeling which is the sure result of a too-starchy meal cuts down your mental and physical alertness, and leaves you wanting to doze, an extremely dangerous desire when one is behind the wheel of an automobile.

How Aging Begins

The average driver has the habit of stuffing himself on candies, cake, pie, sandwiches and sweet drinks, all easily accessible to the motorist at every roadside stand; often he substitutes these all-starch items for regular protein meals.

Rarely can one eat enough protein to produce a gorged feeling, since the appetite is satisfied much more quickly with protein foods than with high starches.

Unnecessary aging begins with starch addiction.

Next: You can look young after 40.

'Emotional Disturbances' Over A-Arms—Harkness

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Defense Minister Harkness Wednesday night advanced strong arguments, supporting Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons.

He said some people could not face the controversial issue "dispassionately" because the subject "gives rise to emotional disturbances which cloud the issue and preclude rational discussion."

Memorial Rite At 'Buildings'

A special memorial ceremony for Remembrance Day will be held Nov. 10 in the Rotunda of the Legislative Buildings.

Civil service representatives will place wreaths besides plaques listing names of their comrades who died in two world wars.

Relatives of civil servants and the public are invited to attend the brief ceremony at 4.45 p.m.

In a speech to the Air Industries and Transport Association, he indicated his support for nuclear weapons equipment for the Honest John rocket, the Bomarc missile and the two advanced Canadian jet fighters—all of which reach their "full potential only when armed with nuclear warheads."

He emphasized Canada relies on the nuclear deterrent maintained by the U.S. and Britain to prevent aggression.

Canada has sold uranium to both countries for the production of nuclear weapons, he said, and belongs to NATO, whose policy was based on nuclear strategy. A number of NATO countries have entered into agreements with the U.S. for the use and storage of nuclear weapons on their soil, he added.

NOT AFFECTED
Referring to criticism of such agreements on grounds that Canada's sovereignty and voice in world councils would be diminished, Mr. Harkness said the countries entered into the agreements "without in any way affecting their influence and position in the United Nations and in other international councils."

Mr. Harkness also rejected arguments advanced by opponents of nuclear weapons that if Canada had them it would make this country more susceptible to attack in the event of war.

"We must face the fact," he said, "that we lie between the world's two greatest protagonists, and it war comes, we will be in the middle of it whether we are neutralists, isolationists or active supporters of the West, and whether we are unarmed or are armed with conventional or nuclear weapons."

Council Changes

REGINA (CP)—Only two aldermen were returned to office in Wednesday's civic election for five city council seats.

Returned were J. B. Young and Les Shesman. Two former aldermen, Vincent Matthews and Joseph Wilkie also won seats, while the surprise came when newcomer D. K. MacPherson, a Regina lawyer, ran second in the voting.

Voters to Blame For Jobless

Some of the blame for Canada's high rate of unemployment must be borne by organized labor for electing the wrong government vice-president E. T. Staley told Victoria Labor Council Wednesday.

EN ROUTE TO SEATTLE from his Montana home is "Last Guns," 103-year-old Blackfoot Indian, who will present President Kennedy with his "favorite" feathered war bonnet next week.

Picture 'Resembles' Lost Lawyer

SPOKANE (AP)—Hotel employees here said Wednesday a man resembling a missing Vancouver attorney may have been at the hotel.

Employees said there was a resemblance to the man who had been at the hotel last month.

Wilbur truckdriver Franz Schultes told police he picked up a man who identified himself as a Canadian the day his car is believed to have plunged into the Columbia River. Schultes said the man paid him to drive to Spokane and drop him at the Coeur d'Alene Hotel.

Earlier, Wilbur truckdriver Robert Tallman told state patrolman Clyde Pugh he picked up a Canadian, who said he was from Trail, near the accident scene.

Sutherland's car was found in the Columbia River near Keller Ferry 10 days ago after officers were alerted to the possible accident by an anonymous letter.

Skin divers later recovered Sutherland's wallet and briefcase from the river.

The anonymous letter writer said he may have forced a car off the road near Keller Ferry.

Verwoerd Bids For Support

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Premier Hendrik Verwoerd of South Africa named two English-speaking ministers to his cabinet Wednesday. They are A. E. Trollop, administrator of Natal, who becomes minister of immigration and labor and F. W. Waring, former member of the opposition United party, who becomes minister without portfolio. The appointments followed press forecasts of moves by Verwoerd to gain more support among English-speaking whites for his apartheid policies. Verwoerd's Nationalist party draws most of its support from Afrikaans-speaking Boers.

JEWISH WOMEN BACK PROTEST TO RUSSIA

TORONTO (CP)—The National Council of Jewish Women of Canada announced Wednesday it will support a mass protest to Premier Khrushchev against Russia's nuclear explosions. The appeal for the protest was made recently by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and United States women delegates to the United Nations.

Douglas Gives Swan Song to Sask.

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, stressing the present international situation in his role as national leader and stepped from the rostrum to await the selection of a new leader Friday. He served for nearly 19 years as political leader and since June, 1944, has been premier. He likely will resign as Party.

ALLEN DRURY
senator-at-large

Author Plays
Silent Part
In Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Meet Allen Drury, senator-at-large. The author is here to oversee filming of his novel, "Advise and Consent". Never one to pass up a publicity possibility, producer-director Otto Preminger has dragged Drury to play a senator in the film. What state does he represent? "Senators without speaking parts aren't so designated," said Drury. "I don't know what I would choose. I was born in Texas, grew up in California, reside in Maryland and my parents live in Florida."

So he was designated senator-at-large, which is a pretty good description of this towering, quiet-spoken but self-assured man. The Drury saga is dear to the heart of every newspaperman. He is one reporter who made it.

After 15 years of covering the United States Senate, he turned his knowledge into a hard-running best seller, with all the condensation, book club, play-and-movie-rights and other harvests that writers dream about.

"Yes, lots of money has come in," he admitted, "but it has gone right out—to the internal revenue department. The income tax laws are not very good for authors and other people who make a lot of money in one year."

"But the government now allows a system whereby the publisher withholds the money for payment over a period of years. Right now I am assured an income for the next 15 years."

What was the reaction of the real-life senators to his book, which deals frankly with the process of choosing a secretary of state?

"I think most of them liked it," said Drury. "The only one who has spoken out against it was Wayne Morse."

Actress Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Joan McCracken, 39, actress and dancer in a number of hit Broadway musical comedies, suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday.

Miss McCracken had film roles in Hollywood Canteen and Good News. Her first straight Broadway role was in The Big Knife with John Garfield.

Leper Colony Urged

TORONTO (CP)—Adoption of an overseas leper colony as part of Canada's 1967 centenary celebrations was urged Wednesday by the Catholic Women's League of Canada at its annual convention here.

Phil Lee's Two for the Show

AA (Dance Class) B (For Baby Days) C (For Fun in Time)

(A) "EXODUS" (Odeon): Any motion picture that lasts three and a half hours must be excellent if it is to hold its audience's interest from start to finish.

United Artists' adaptation by Dalton Trumbo of Leon Uris' best-selling novel, "Exodus," does exactly this and, therefore must be considered among the "unusual" pictures of the year.

To be true there will be those who will see in Uris' story of the Jews' fight for Israel—a country of their own—only a one-sided argument that amounts to nothing more than blatant propaganda.

I, for one, however, feel that a race that saw some six million of their own put to death in Nazi ovens, a race that has been persecuted and reviled over thousands of years, has a right to weep now and then. And if "Exodus" is propaganda then they may be forgiven for this too.

The story starts in 1947. American nurse Eva Marie Saint arrives in Cyprus to learn the details of the death of her husband, a magazine photographer, from British commander, General Ralph Richardson. There she meets Paul Newman, leader in the Jewish underground in Palestine and seeks for herself the prison camp packed with Jewish refugees. Irked by Richardson's anti-Jewish aide, Peter Lawford, she agrees to nurse the prisoners.

The scene then shifts to Palestine and the Jews fight for Israel via the UN. The tension mounts as the Arab-Israeli conflict grows. Jew disagrees with Jew and the American nurse and the Hebrew leader gradually fall in love.

Some of the memorable scenes must be credited to young Sal Mineo, and to vivacious Jill Haworth.

Unfortunately there are one or two scenes in which Newman is allowed to emote about the plight of Jewry that should have been omitted. The story up until then had already done this in action and the words somehow detracted from what had gone on before—an unnecessary gilding of the golden Star of David.

Mass Evacuation Dropped As Basic CD Plan for B.C.

Provincial civil defence acknowledged today that evacuation of urban populations is impractical compared with a policy of providing radioactive fallout shelters.

"There will be no mass evacuations as they were known in the past," said John Erb, deputy co-ordinator of B.C. civil defence.

He was commenting on a new declaration of policy by the U.S. government, which announced today the idea of evacuating city dwellers has been abandoned for all practical purposes.

But like B.C., the Pentagon will not discourage local and state governments from making evacuation plans if they choose.

"Evacuation certainly takes second place to fallout shelters in Washington's planning," a spokesman said.

Mr. Erb commented: "If there is sufficient warning time of a nuclear attack, people could evacuate to the homes of friends and relatives in another city away from a target area.

"We are trying to encourage home and family fallout shelters," he said.

Basically, federal policy in this regard is the same, although it is stated that there should be evacuation where possible, covered by fallout shelters for people who remain within a danger area.

'Peace Strike' By U.S. Women

(By UPI)

U.S. women, angered and frightened by the growing threat of nuclear warfare, staged a gigantic protest demonstration throughout the country Wednesday.

Motel Men Ask Easier Liquor Law

PENTICTON (CP)—British Columbia's auto courts and motel men want liquor licences issued without the stipulation of set government accommodation rules.

Delegates to the auto courts and motel association convention Wednesday maintained the present policy of the liquor-control board places undue pressure on applicants to build a required number of rental units in order to obtain a license.

Support was given a resolution presented by the association's Victoria local, claiming that accommodation saturation has become extremely serious because of overbuilding in some areas just to obtain liquor licences. This, the resolution said, resulted in a price war in the accommodation field.

Delegates also supported resolutions calling for immediate completion of the Trans-Canada Highway; abolishing of outside rate signs at auto courts and motels and asking that all government campsites be built in areas not served by private enterprise.

The protest, in the form of a "strike for peace," was unorganized. But it was awesome in its penetration into virtually every section of the country and every major city.

The "strikers for peace" included teen-aged college students, young housewives and elderly matrons. They paraded in wind and rain, sunshine and wearying heat and in near freezing temperatures.

Some pushed baby carriages or carried infants in their arms. Almost all carried signs denouncing continuation of nuclear testing and the feverish east-west arms race.

AT WHITE HOUSE

The demonstrations were carried out before the White House and the Soviet Embassy in Washington, the United Nations headquarters, and Russian UN mission in New York and centres of government across the nation.

They urged Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev, wives of the leaders of the world's two most powerful nations, to help bring a halt to the bomb tests in the interest of survival of the human race.

One of the largest demonstrations was in Chicago where an estimated 1,000 women gathered to appeal for a halt to nuclear testing.

They drafted telegrams to President Kennedy, the UN and to other public officials. Other groups staged protests in other parts of Chicago and called on Mayor Richard Daley to "lead our city in showing America and the world the way toward peace."

Gold Vanishes

LONDON (AP) — British and Swiss police are investigating the disappearance of more than $20,000 worth of gold from a Swiss airliner last Friday. Police said gold worth nearly $700,000 was loaded aboard the plane at London Airport. The aircraft landed first at Basle, and when it arrived at Zurich, one of the crates was missing.

LOCAL BRIEFS

A suspended sentence was given a man in city police court Tuesday after he had earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of taking cash under the value of $50 from Leon Queen, 550 Johnson, Oct. 24.

Robert Shepley, no fixed address, was placed on a bond of $250 to be of good behaviour for six months. The charge involved a box containing $4.50 in cash.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shelagh Buchanan, of Victoria, was given a suspended sentence in city police court Tuesday after conviction on a charge of common assault on Derek Mallard, 615 Vancouver. She was placed under bond of $100 to be of good behaviour for six months.

A meeting of the Doncaster PTA will be held on Wednesday, November 8, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. After the meeting, Dutch born Oscar Spanier will show slides and give a talk on The Netherlands.

Lawrence R. Dunkley, 736 Cloverdale, and Quadra Auto Sales both were charged with failing to remit Social Service Tax returns totalling $711.62 in Saanich police court Tuesday.

Each was fined $10 on the four counts involved in both cases.

St. Andrew's Cathedral will hold a bazaar and smorgasbord supper in the Chinese Catholic Mission Hall, 866 North Park, next Saturday at 2 p.m.

B.C. Electric bus traffic continues to decline, a quarterly franchise payment to City Hall revealed today. The company set a cheque for $5,601, representing 3 per cent of its gross revenue on city routes for the three months ending Sept. 30, down from the almost $6,000 payment made for the corresponding period last year.

Alleged picket line "misdeemeanors" have gained an injunction against pickets protesting Taylor Pearson and Carson Ltd., wholesale outlet in Victoria.

Unionists are protesting the absence of a working agreement at the company's Vancouver outlet, and by law are permitted to establish picket lines around other branches of the company, even though they are not organized.

The company will be called upon to prove its charge, of which no details were specified.

NO SIGN OF OPPOSITION

Reeves Seek Re-Election In Oak Bay, Esquimalt

Both Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay and Reeve A. C. Wurtele, will seek re-election in the Dec. 7 municipal elections for another two-year term.

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich said Wednesday he definitely will not run again for the reeveship. He became a member of parliament for the Esquimalt-Saanich riding in a federal by-election last May.

A total of nine council seats, three in each municipality, also will be filled in the election.

Councillors whose two-year terms expire Dec. 31 are Allan Cox, Gordon Elworthy and Percy Noel of Oak Bay; Walter Holder, Arthur Fields and G. K. Sanson of Esquimalt; and Gregory Cook, Stanley Murphy and Leslie Passmore of Saanich.

Deadline for nominations is noon Nov. 27.

It looks as though Saanich will be the only municipality in which there will be a campaign for the reeveship.

Probable contenders for the position are Coun. Stanley Murphy and Coun. Leslie Passmore. William Mattick, of Cordova Bay, is a possible contender.

There is no sign of any opposition yet for Reeve Wurtele, who has served 16 years on Esquimalt council, 10 of them as reeve, or for Reeve Murdoch, who has served 18 years on Oak Bay council.

COMMISSION MEMBERS IN DANGER?

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Anti-Communist guerrillas have cut off the rebel capital of Xieng Khouang from the major leftist air base on the Plain of Jars in a flareup of the Laotian civil war, reliable military sources said Wednesday.

The thunder of heavy weapons—artillery and mortars—echoed across the rebel-held plain in increasing volume. Fear was expressed for the safety of the Indian, Canadian and Polish members of the International Control Commission in Xieng Khouang.

Laos Peace Formula 'In Sight'

GENEVA (Reuters)—Communist China hinted Wednesday that the long task of finding a formula for neutrality and peace in Laos may be nearing its end.

The hint came as the 14-nation conference on Laos approved texts on the status of the International Control Commission in the Indochinese kingdom.

Red Chinese Deputy Foreign Minister Chang Hsiao-tu told the conference that "after more than five months of work, the shore is in sight."

Chang urged that even though a unified Laotian government has yet to be formed the delegates should "still come to an agreement on all questions and through appropriate steps bring our conference to a provisional conclusion."

Western sources said the approved texts will give the commission real power and authority to act when needed.

Under the texts, foreign military personnel would be withdrawn "in the shortest possible time" along routes to be decided by the Laotians in consultation with the control commission.

Cuba Papers Merge

HAVANA (Reuters)—Two Havana evening newspapers, Combate and Presna Libre, appeared Wednesday for the last time before being merged with a third evening newspaper, La Calle. A published statement said the merger "arose from the necessity to avoid the dispersal of effort."

WALLS CAME TUMBLING DOWN

One of Victoria's oldest homes is now under the wrecker's hammer at 657 Superior near Douglas. Built in the late 1890s, it was bought by city barrister John Patmore Walls in 1907, and his daughter, Miss Nina

RASH OF FIRES MAY BE WORK OF PSYCHOTIC

Suspected City Arson Cases Follow Pattern

By IAIN HUNTEE

An urge to destroy property or persons?

A fascination with fire engines or fire itself?

Or simply an innocent desire to burn unsightly litter?

A firebug can be driven by any of these motives, according to a Victoria psychiatrist.

He was asked to comment on the suspicion that a firebug is responsible for a rash of recent fires in the vicinity of Builders' Sash and Door Ltd., in the Cecelia-Garbally Road area.

PATTERN FOLLOWED

The psychiatrist said the pattern of the eight fires, which have terrorized residents in the area, is one sometimes followed by firebugs.

And a pyromaniac—nearly always follows a pattern whether he acts from a "harmless" impulse or is involved in a vicious vendetta.

The "pattern factor," the psychiatrist said, eventually leads to the downfall of most firebugs.

In another interview, Dr. W. H. Gaddes of the psychology department at Victoria College agreed that it was difficult to attribute a general cause to pyromania.

In each case it is a seriously disturbed personality which is involved. But beyond a general emotional frustration or underdevelopment each case exhibits characteristics peculiar to itself.

In some it may be a form of sex perversion. Some pyromaniacs are able to get sexual satisfaction from watching a big fire.

In others, pyromania takes the form of an effort to gain mastery over the individual's environment, according to Dr. Gaddes.

"A disturbed person who feels himself inadequate in every other way, may resort to burning other people's houses or property as a way of getting back at society," he said.

Usually the pyromaniac is seeking to harm society in general rather than a particular person or family.

Not even his own property is immune. "A firebug that set fire to his own property would be exhibiting masochistic tendencies," said Dr. Gaddes.

To date there have been nine fires in the vicinity of Builders' Sash and Door, and residents in the area have been receiving threatening phone calls. Some families have moved out of the area altogether.

$700 Reward Out For Firebug's Arrest

YOUTH BURNED IN GASOLINE BLAST, FIRE

A 19-year-old Saanich youth was badly burned to day when a bucket of gas exploded in the garage where he is employed.

Robert Cuthbert, 4483 Wilkinson Road, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with first and second-degree burns to his hands, arms and neck. His condition is described as good.

He reached the hospital faster than might otherwise have been expected since the garage at 4513 West Saanich is directly opposite the Saanich police station and an ambulance reached him in seconds.

Police said the youth was cleaning auto parts in the gasoline when a spark from a starting motor ignited the volatile liquid.

Council, Victim Post Cash

City police commission has accepted an offer from Victoria city council to put up a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest of the Cecelia Road firebug.

Meanwhile Jack Lord, owner of Builders' Sash and Door Ltd., whose premises on Cecelia Road have been a main target of the arsonist, told The Times today he will add $200 to the reward offered by city council.

A spokesman for the police commission said the city's reward will not be handed over unless a conviction is made in the case.

"If a suspect is acquitted the reward will be withheld."

'FRUSTRATING'

Mr. Lord said he was increasing the reward money in the hope that somebody, somewhere, will be able to help "flush out the firebug."

"It's frustrating to carry on business with this shadow hanging perpetually over our heads," he said.

First attempt to set a fire at the firm's premises was on Aug. 7. There have been numerous incidents since then.

"Damage sustained at our Cecelia Road plant to date is about $25,000," Mr. Lord said.

"In addition to that, we have been put to a great deal of extra cost to provide more protection."

COSTLY SAFEGUARDS

"We have had to hire two extra watchmen; build a fence around the premises; install lighting and in addition members of our regular staff have been carrying out extra patrols."

"We are still operating our plant on Garbally Road, but for some time now we have wanted to transfer the entire works to Cecelia."

"Now these fires have put us back to where we were six months ago."

"And our 35 employees are naturally worried about the whole business, too."

"The lease on the Garbally Road premises runs out next April. If, through the efforts of the arsonist, we haven't been able to prepare our plant on Cecelia Road, the employees will be out of a job," he said.

BLUE ANGELS FLY BETWEEN 2 AND 3

The U.S. Navy's famed Blue Angel flight demonstration team is planning its "flying visit" along the Victoria waterfront between 2 and 3 p.m. Friday.

The wings-across-the-border gesture is assured pending clearance by USN headquarters at Washington, D.C.

The team flies Grumman jet fighters. This weekend they will appear at the Naval Air Fair at the Naval Air Base, Whidbey Island.

Failure Forecast For Red Feather

UNITED APPEAL AT A GLANCE:

$65,997 still needed—

$254,003 in hand at noon—

If you have not been called on, please send your donation to either of the three banks at the corner of Yates and Douglas; to CJVT's radio booth; or to United Appeal HQ, 1951 Cook Street.

Current United Appeal fund drive for $320,000 will fail, city finance committee was told today.

And this could break up the Red Feather organization, campaign chairman Justin Harbord hinted.

His request for a $25,000 grant from the four municipalities was referred to inter-municipal committee.

"The United Appeal fund drive is now almost over, and it now appears certain that its goal of $320,000 will not be attained," Mr. Harbord wrote.

SEPARATE APPEALS

He said this would curtail activities of various community organizations and "there is a probability that there will be an additional 22 separate appeals next year."

Mr. Harbord argued that civic government should reverse their traditional refusal to use tax funds to subsidize the U.A. fund.

"I am reasonably certain that every supporter and donor to the United Appeal, numbering over 30,000, would heartily approve financial contribution by the various councils," he claimed.

"Since no contribution is received from approximately 30 per cent of the population there should reasonably be no complaint from that section of the taxpayers to donations on their behalf."

Labor Promised Local Preference On Hospital Job

Organized labor was assured Wednesday that local labor would get preference in the construction of Royal Jubilee Hospital's new wing, to which labor and members of the public have subscribed.

Hospital administrator George Masters wrote to Victoria Labor Council in reply to a council request that all buildings using public monies should also use local labor.

The point will be covered in a contract clause, Mr. Masters said.

ASK THE TIMES

Q: Could you please give me an explanation of hibernation?

A: Hibernation is a state of suspended animation undergone by certain animals in cold climates as a means of escape from the shortage of the food supply during the winter. A kindred state is "aestivation" which is undergone by some animals during periods of extreme heat or drought in hot climates which cut off the food supply as well. Some animals first build up a supply of fat, mammals during hibernation almost lapse into a "cold blooded" condition, some hibernate longer than others, some more intensely than others. But in all cases it is the lack of food rather than the cold temperature which is the important factor. Hibernation and aestivation occur in every group of vertebrates save birds.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1961—PAGE 19

... HERE ... AND THERE With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Salesman Jack Forster of Vancouver is still lamenting the loss of the old midnight steamer in which he travelled to and from Victoria for seven years.

He recalls the clubby atmosphere which prevailed among the regulars, as when Jack encountered a sour-looking business rival at the purser's desk and said:

"Hello, going to Victoria?"

"No," was the reply, "I'm digging for clams!"

I hear that six Victorians have formed a local centre of the Spiritual Regeneration Movement following the visit here last week of the Indian mystic Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

Under the leadership of Dr. Donald Hodgins of 1476 Gladstone, they will practise the "deep meditation" advocated by the Maharishi as a cure for world wars.

And on Friday week, Nov. 10, they will receive personal instructions from the Maharaj—a disciple of the Maharishi who also comes from the Valley of Saints, high in the Himalaya Mountains.

Glen Hamilton, lively executive director of the Silver Threads Service, is thinking of seeking a grant from the tourist bureau.

Seems he is getting letters from senior citizens in Eastern Canada inquiring about Victoria's climate, and of course he replies "Wonderful!"

"Your climatic conditions seem to be free from extremes of any kind and are therefore very attractive to elderly people," wrote William Fox of Lakeside House, Drumbo, Ont.

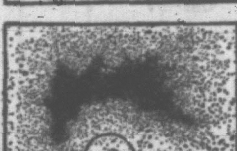

Every second Thursday in the month the old Orange Hall at 725 Courtney vibrates to the tune of That Old Squeal. Jigging Ground sung by members of the Newfoundland Club of Victoria.

Bert Noel, president, tells me the club was founded by six Newfies in 1923. Its membership rose at one time to 75, but has since dropped back to around 40.

AT CENTURY 21

Island To Have Own Booth

Canada's Treasure Island will have its own booth at the Century 21 World's Fair opening at Seattle next April 21, tourist commissioner William Hawkins announced here today.

"Location of the booth is one of the very best available," Mr. Hawkins said. "It is situated at the corner of the Boulevard of Nations and the avenue giving access to the principal exhibitions and the Coliseum."

"By reason of its location, it is sure to attract the greatest possible number of passing pedestrians."

Mr. Hawkins said the booking of a Vancouver Island booth is the direct result of a board of directors' meeting at Campbell River last Oct. 27.

Mr. Hawkins inspected the booth Wednesday.

"My conversation with most of the officials there convinced me that they are justified in estimating a total of some 10,000,000 visitors from all over Canada, the United States and foreign countries."

"So far some 32 foreign nations have taken exhibition space and at this very moment there is no available space left."

Mr. Hawkins noted that the Canadian government has taken some 11,500 square feet of space within a very short distance of the Treasure Island booth.

"We plan to staff the booth with four knowledgeable and personable young women, thoroughly familiar with the Canadian picture, and with a sound knowledge of Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands."

Mr. Hawkins estimates that some 750,000 descriptive and illustrated brochures of Vancouver Island will be available at the booth.

Gordon Cadwell, 746 Kings, was sentenced to 14 days jail today in city police court after pleading guilty to impaired driving. It was his second offence.

No circumstances were given since he pleaded not guilty to two charges of failing to remain at the scene of an accident arising out of the same incident.

Acting Magistrate J. A. Byers said reading of circumstances might prove prejudicial to defence of the other two charges.

CRIME HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

Two Boat Thefts Draw Jail Term

A city man was sentenced to three years imprisonment today in city police court for his part in the near-identical thefts of two boats which were both wrecked on the Washington State coast.

Charged with one offence and given concurrent sentences of three years each after pleading guilty.

Police said the man took the 35-foot cruiser St. Roche II from the McKay-Cormack dock at 130 Kingston Sept. 21, 1960.

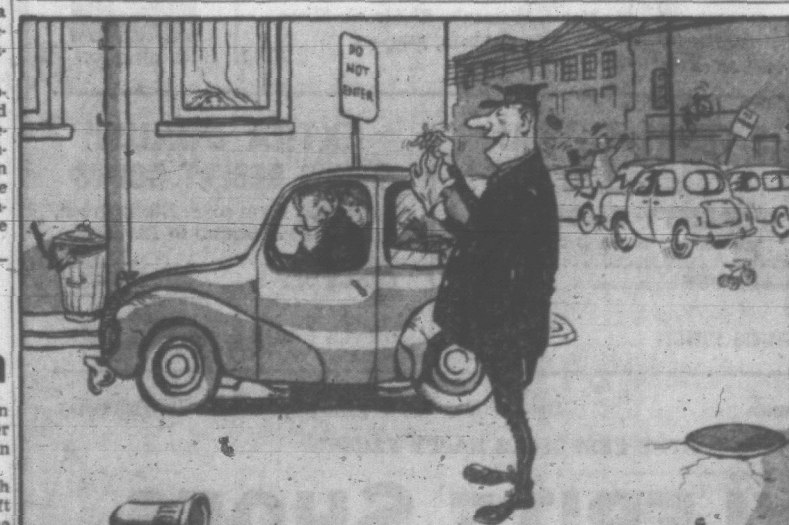

The boat became a total loss when Sauer left it anchored in Ozed Bay, Washington, and went ashore. High winds pushed the craft onto rocks and rescue efforts were too late.

Just under a year later, Sept. 15, 1961, he took the 40-foot converted harbor craft Blue

Chip from the same location and, with at least one other man, sailed it 200 miles down to Port Grenville, Wash.

Here he went ashore with his companions and the craft was blown ashore under the same circumstances as before.

A companion in the second theft, Karoly Andra, no fixed address, was sentenced to two years imprisonment at the same time for his part in the incident.

DEAR ABBY

Are You Kidding, Lady?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I can't decide which man I want to marry. One is a car salesman, very good-looking, a year younger than I am, and likes to make me jealous. The other is an army man, not very "pretty," but very strong and masculine, two years older than I am, and tries to please me.

B. J. FROM N. C.

DEAR B. J.: Marry the army man. He can cook, sew, make beds, is in perfect health, and knows how to take orders.

DEAR ABBY: We own our own home and have a lot of money invested in it, so moving out is out of the question. Our problem is next door. For years there was an old boarded-up shack next door to us. Some people bought it and have started to fix it up themselves. Instead of working on it during the daytime, they work on it all night. At 12 o'clock midnight they start in with the electric saw. At 2 in the morning they are mixing concrete. My husband works days and has to get his sleep at night. Last week we took our bedding out to the garage and slept in our car. Don't suggest talking to them because we don't know what language they speak, but it isn't English. Is there a peaceful solution?

PEACE LOVING NEIGHBORS
DEAR NEIGHBORS: Go next door and try to communicate with them. Surely they will comprehend enough English to understand what your complaint is. If they are unable (or unwilling) to receive your message, ask your local police to help you get it across to them.

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from "Needs Advice," who wrote that her four-year-old son had become terribly attached to a cuddly doll, and refused to go to sleep without it. Maybe she could adopt our solution to the problem.

Last winter our nearly five-year-old daughter showed no signs of ever parting with her tattered old doll blanket. After we finished our Christmas shopping, she saw a large toy stagecoach she wanted very much. I suggested that perhaps Santa would be willing to trade the stagecoach for her blanket, as he could use it to keep Rudolph warm. She thought it over for several days, wanting both. Before she went to bed Christmas Eve, she put her little blanket under the tree. The next morning she was delighted with her stagecoach. She apparently has never missed her blanket because she never mentioned it again.

AROUND, ABOUT Queen Anne Had Nothing To Do With It

By PAT DUFOUR

Last evening I went back to the early 18th century. No, I wasn't reading a novel or watching a late show.

I was at a lecture, "Antique Furniture", given at the Art Gallery by Mrs. Peggy Bartholomew, the well-known antique dealer. She gave the audience, including me, an authoritative look at English life in the days when William and Mary wielded the royal sceptre.

It all started with Mrs. Bartholomew talking on furniture of the "Queen Anne" period although, as she put it, "Queen Anne was a very uninteresting woman and had little or nothing to do with it".

THEY DID...

Influence of this period she pin-pointed as coming from William and Mary. "William was a Dutchman and it was only natural that when he went to England he took his country's love of wide-seated furniture and introduced veneering of walnut and other innovations being used in Holland."

William and Mary became very much alive as Mrs. Bartholomew described them as "essentially a home-loving couple, who, disgusted with the dissolute living then prevalent in court circles, decided to make a real home for themselves at Hampton Court."

They became even more human as I heard of the "fearful rows" between the royal couple and their architect. When Mary insisted that in their home adequate room be made for the porcelains that she loved to collect.

It was during the first years of the 18th century, largely due to Mary's tenacity, that china cabinets entered the furniture scene.

Other new items included grandfather clocks, wig stands, tea tables and mirrors.

Having always thought that there was only one Chippendale I was amazed to learn that there had actually been three. I felt better, though, when I was told: "It was the second Chippendale that was the genius. The first was only really important for siring his son. The third was a fizzle and ended up in bankruptcy."

LOOK FIRST

And for those women who, having bought an antique, feel cheated when they discover a handsome piece of veneer backed on to a lowly piece of soft wood, Mrs. Bartholomew had these encouraging words:

"This is always done by a good craftsman in order to cut down tendency of two woods to draw apart through atmospheric changes. You really haven't been cheated at all."

She also had advice for women like myself who find the lure of an auction almost irresistible.

"Be smart, take advantage of the view-day and have a good look at the item you're thinking of bidding on. Assess its value as closely as you can and set the figure you intend to stop at."

"When the bidding starts—remember your price—don't go more than 10 per cent higher. There's always another time."

Married Here; to Live in Halifax

After a honeymoon in North Bay, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Peter Moore are now making their home in Halifax, N.S. Canon T. W. Scott officiated at the marriage in St. John's Anglican Church in Victoria. The bride is the former Margaret Greenslade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Greenslade, of West Sumnerland, B.C. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. Moore, of North Bay.

green foliage, decorated the church for the ceremony. The organist was Frederick Chubb. Miss Pamela Paver sang "The Wedding Prayer". Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta, styled with long sleeves and scalloped neckline. Aurora Ercalis embroidery highlighted the white lace that trimmed the bodice and front of the skirt. A shoulder-length veil of white net misted from a headpiece of taffeta and aurora borealis embroidery. "Something borrowed, something blue and something old" was the blue and white rhinestone necklace she wore. Pink and white roses were in her bouquet. Identical short gowns of pale green net, sprinkled with silver and posed over white taffeta, were chosen by the maid of honor, Miss Katherine Greenslade, the bride's sister, and the bridesmaid, Miss Gloria Mobey. They wore green tiaras and gloves and carried cascade bouquets of pinky-mauve chrysanthemums.

Edward York was best man and ushers were Dirk Van Ek and Donald Marshall.

Following the ceremony a reception, arranged by members of St. John's Anglican Young People's Association, was held in the Dunn Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robin. Rooms were decorated in pink and white theme and pink sweetheart roses were on the three-tier wedding cake.

R. F. Hood proposed the toast to the bride.

As her going-away ensemble the new Mrs. Moore chose a turquoise wool suit with pink accessories.

TORONTO — Mary Rendell will be the only woman in the official delegation of the Anglican Church of Canada attending The World Council of Churches in New Delhi this month. Another special guest at the head-table was Mrs. H. F. Jarvis, Britannia Ladies' Auxiliary No. 7.

Chapter Fetes Blind Citizens

Chrysanthemums in autumn tones and yellow place mats decorated tea tables when members of Robert Burns Mocking Chapter, IODE, entertained 150 members of Victoria Branch, Canadian National Institute's headquarters on Blanshard Street. Guests were welcomed by the regent, Mrs. A. W. Flinton.

Musical program provided a delightful highlight. It was given by Mrs. Ruth Champion, accompanied by Mrs. F. Williams; Brian Mee and David Palmer. Mrs. P. Balagno, assisted by chapter members, was in charge of arrangements.

TODAY'S RECIPE

SCOTCH TREAT

Baps are the Scottish morning roll, at their best in Aberdeenshire.

Today's recipe for Baps of Scotland is quite typical of the buns that have delighted so many overseas visitors. They are light and soft in texture and neither rich nor sweet. Serve them warm from the oven, reheated, toasted or cold—they're good just about any way.

BAPS OF SCOTLAND

One and one-half cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2-cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 envelope active dry yeast, 3/4 cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 1/4-cup shortening.

Scald milk; stir in salt. Cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, measure lukewarm water; stir in sugar. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well. Measure flour into a large bowl; rub in the shortening with fingertips. Combine lukewarm milk texture and dissolved yeast; add to flour mixture and blend until smooth, adding a little more flour, if necessary, to make a very soft dough. Scrape down sides of bowl. Cover with a damp tea towel. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 1 1/2 hours. Punch down dough. Turn out onto floured board or canvas and knead until smooth and elastic. Divide dough into 12 equal portions. Cover with a tea towel and let rest 10 minutes. Shape one portion of dough into a 12-inch roll; cut into six 2-inch pieces. Shape each piece into a smooth ball, then roll out lightly to form an oval bun about 3x5 inches. Repeat with remaining portion of dough. Sprinkle tops lightly with flour. Arrange, well apart, on greased cookie sheets.

Let rise, uncovered, in a warm place, free from draft, until almost doubled in bulk—about 45 minutes. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Cool on a tea towel. Yield: 1 dozen large buns.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Redshaw celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Saturday at their Milton Street home. They were married in Bradford, Yorkshire, Eng., and came to Canada in 1914. They retired to Victoria six years ago.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Has Boredom Crept Into Your Life? Kick It Out With New Interests

Has boredom crept into your life without your realization? Has something happened to the bubble and sparkle, the enthusiasm and zest which usually colors your life? If so, don't blame it on age! Do something about it! Some of the most vibrant folks I know are far past early youth.

First investigate your physical condition. Lowered vitality and nervous exhaustion dull the keen edge of living and lead to all sorts of personality changes. These conditions also can upset your emotional balance. Sometimes boredom is simply a symptom of extreme fatigue. On the other hand, lack of new interests can make you tired.

If your health is not at fault, then you are most likely bored because you have not added any new interests or activities to your life for a long, long time. No matter how interested you are, or how deeply involved emotionally you are in your responsibilities and work, doing the same things over and over again palls unless new interests are added periodically. I know one man who changes his hobby every few years, no matter how much he enjoys it.

If you have gotten into a rut, it will take real effort to jog yourself out of it. However, once you make a start you will become interested and feel refreshed.

Some women are bored because they have too much leisure. Their lives have lost the feeling of accomplishment and importance because of lack of vital interests and endeavors. You are more likely to be a candidate for the doctor with too much leisure than with too little.

What a shame it seems to go through life with boredom hung around our necks. There is so much which needs doing and so much to be enjoyed! We all have our ups and downs. Even the most optimistic and gayest person sometimes has blue days, but if the condition is chronic, do something about this destructive and wasteful way to live.

'RADIOACTIVE' MILK DELIVERED TO SOVIETS

LONDON (Reuters)—A pint bottle of milk labelled "danger—radioactive" was left on the doorstep of the Soviet Embassy Wednesday night.

About 500 anti-nuclear demonstrators carrying similar bottles had tried to reach the Embassy. But one managed to sneak past a 100-strong police cordon.

The lone demonstrator, accountant Walter J. Wolfgang, 38, rang an Embassy doorbell and a hatch slid open to disclose the face of a Russian official.

"I have a parcel for you," said Wolfgang.

"No, no, no," exclaimed the official, closing the hatch. Wolfgang put down the milk bottle and slipped away.

ANNUAL SCHOOL, BANQUET

Labor Men Neglect Two Major Projects

Victoria Labor Council delegates reported Wednesday only scant interest in two major undertakings.

John Nicol, education chairman, expressed disappointment that only 37 delegates of an expected 100 or more had registered for the council's annual school this weekend.

"I thought Victoria could have sent more," he said.

Among the speakers scheduled are Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, who will address students on Canadian foreign policy; Prof. Tony Emery, on adult education; Prof. C. S. Burchill on economics; and unionists Dan Radford on building a better union, and Fred Bevis, talking about the New Party, founding.

The council's annual banquet has drawn only 30 ticket sales, but caused a minor furore of discussion at Wednesday's meeting when a delegate suggested the local Empress Hotel—be boycotted in support of a strike at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

CPR RUNS BOTH

It was suggested that since the CPR operates both hotels, local labor should join in the protest which in Toronto has brought months of bitter opposition.

But Toronto strikers are members of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers' Union, whereas all other CPR hotel employees are members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and Hotel Workers' Union, who have no grievance with the company.

THREAT TO WITHDRAW

Mrs. Rhoda Erickson, delegate for the CBRT, indignantly threatened to withdraw her union from the labor council if any such action were taken here.

Delegates were reprimanded by vice-president E. T. Staley who said there would be no union house in the whole city in which to hold the banquet if it were not for the CBRT being in the Empress.

Secretary A. W. Toone said the local council could take no such arbitrary action without a request from the national CBRT executive.

Rogers Faced Court Trial Over Threat

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Vancouver lawyer who committed suicide in Victoria while his wife was in jail awaiting sentence on a bawdy house charge was wanted by police on a charge of threatening to kill her, it was learned here Wednesday.

The charge was laid Oct. 7 against Edward C. Rogers, 34, by his wife Dawn, whom he unsuccessfully defended on the charge in a Victoria court-room last week.

She had told police Rogers threatened her by saying, "I'm going to kill you within the hour. You've got 60 seconds to finish your cigarette."

Rogers did not appear Oct. 16 in police court to face the charge and was arrested on a bench warrant 10 days later. He was released on his own recognizance and told to appear Oct. 23.

He didn't appear on that date and a second warrant for his arrest was issued. The threatening charge was formally dropped Tuesday.

Rogers died from an overdose of a drug in his Empress Hotel room in Victoria last Thursday—hours after the unsuccessful defence of his wife.

Mrs. Rogers, who had been charged under the name Dawn Adams, was given a suspended sentence Monday on the bawdy house charge and fined $300 for skipping bail on a charge two years ago.

Education Best Bet To Combat Obscenity

TORONTO (CP)—Education, not censorship, is the best weapon against the sale of obscene literature, Arnold Edinborough, editor and publisher of the magazine Saturday Night, said Wednesday night.

He criticized a system that teaches reading "as a mere mechanical skill instead of letting students see that reading is a soul-enriching vital experience which can take them into the very deepest recesses of the human mind and spirit."

He added: "We spend millions in police forces and reform schools and penitentiaries on our public library system. Thousands of youngsters only have access to imported trash."

RESULT, NOT CAUSE

The shocking and offensive state of bookstalls was not a cause of the sickness of society but a result.

"No one would believe that our society is Christian if they judge us from our mass media."

Mr. Edinborough excepted Canadian newspapers, large slick magazines, housewife journals and news and feature magazines. He panned men's

WONDERFUL PROJECTS POSSIBLE

Canadian Gardeners Unite Toronto Enthusiast Urges

MONTREAL (CP)—An avid Toronto gardener says Canadians with green thumbs should unite in a national association of garden clubs.

Mrs. J. R. M. Wilson, a member of Toronto's garden club, put the case for organized gardening during a talk to Montreal enthusiasts.

As an example of what it can accomplish, she cited Toronto's "fragrant garden" for the blind already completed, an "enchanted garden" being built for crippled children, and a planned civic garden centre "where home owners can obtain good gardening advice."

The fragrant garden is located near the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

"We used plants with fragrance and with texture, and we also used texture on the walks. When the walk is straight it is smooth underfoot, but when there is a corner coming, it is pebbled."

To create sound in the garden there are pine-trees, rustling aspens and a fountain. There are also plants to "squeeze" such as peppermint geraniums, lemon geraniums and thyme. All flower beds are raised 10 about the height of kitchen counters, and signs are in braille as well as letters.

The enchanted garden will be arranged in a series of four small gardens: one for small children, one each for boys and girls, and one an adventure playground. Each will have its own special flowers, with the small children getting pussy willows, the girls, silver-lace, and the boys, snapdragons.

One feature of the playground will be a tree house inhabited by snakes and frogs. By utilization of a sharp drop in the land, the house can be reached by wheelchair.

Planned cost of the project is $45,000, most of it raised by the garden club's annual flower show. Among donations was one by Metropolitan Toronto on the occasion of Prince Andrew's birth.

"This money was used for the boys' garden which has an Indian fort, a teepee and a dugout canoe which serves as a sandbox," Mrs. Wilson said.

Soviet-Finnish Talks 'Legitimate Request'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—

President Urho Kekkonen of Finland was scheduled to fly home today but reassured this country a note from Russia requesting defence talks was "a legitimate request."

"As far as Finnish-Soviet relations are concerned, the proposal to have consultations does not introduce a new principle but reflects the very grave tension that exists in Europe," he told a World Affairs Council dinner here Wednesday night.

Kekkonen wound up a tour of the U.S. by saying Finnish foreign policy was designed to safeguard the security and independence of his nation.

He explained a treaty of friendship and mutual assistance signed with Russia in 1948 stated Finland would "not become a route of aggression against the Soviet Union."

According to the treaty, he explained, Finland and Russia would "consult with each other in case both agreed a threat of military aggression existed."

"Finland's commitment is to defend her own territory—and only her own territory," he said.

Blast, Fire Level Large Interior Mill

LUMBY, B.C. (CP)—A spark from a welder's torch is believed to have caused an explosion and fire which swept through the Lumby Timber Co. sawmill Wednesday.

Loss was estimated at more than $250,000.

Six men working in the mill fled for their lives when an explosion occurred, followed by a fast-spreading fire.

Millwright Gus Wolney tried to fight the blaze with a water hose but "the flames spread so fast it was as though they were chasing us out."

Twenty-five members of the Lumby fire department, aided by mill workers and forestry department suppression crews, battled to keep the blaze from the neighboring Monashee Lumber Co.

Two sawmill shifts, 120 men, will be out of work in the mill, one of the biggest in the interior.

In an era when many forms of advertising are criticized by the public, daily newspaper advertisements have retained their popularity. Most people not only like newspaper ads, but want them. And one of the most important reasons is "comparison shopping." Through their daily newspapers people check the features, benefits and prices of competitive products and services. They also discover where to buy. They find newspaper advertising definite, informative and... IN PRINT. Print advertising can be reviewed and remembered. TEEN-AGE CANADA

UN World Review Gets Good Reception

By JACK HUTTON.

A visiting teacher walked into a Grade 7 classroom the other day and took a quick second look at copies of World Review lining the room's blackboards.

"Didn't you know," he asked the teacher in hushed tones, "that World Review is meant for kids far older than this?" The truth, as he quickly found out, is that the four-page pamphlet is being read each month by a teen-age audience which amazes the adult writers.

This week I decided to look behind the scenes at the little pamphlet which bravely tries to interpret for high school students world events which adults apparently can't understand.

Probably every high school student in Canada has at one time or another read the pamphlet, prepared by the United Nations Association in Canada. It tackles a different world topic each month.

What is surprising officials of the UN Association, I found, is that teen-agers seem to be reading about world affairs at a much earlier age than most people suspect.

Never Write Down

And World Review, published in 70,000 copies each month, makes no attempt to "write down" to its audience. One of its most successful pamphlets was written by Lester Pearson, Liberal leader.

Willson Woodside, national director of the UN Association for Canada, says: "We do avoid writers who are unable to say what they want in clear language. But we never write down on any topic."

Looking back over the issues which have gone into a countless number of classrooms is like taking a quick trip through recent history. Issue Number 1—written in September, 1950—was based on the Korean War.

The high school audience across Canada received in quick succession issues devoted to China and Southeast Asia, UNICEF, the power of the veto in the UN and the defence of Europe.

"Some of our issues have certainly been red-hot ones," admitted Mr. Woodside. "But we've had few complaints. If there are going to be any changes, they will simply be to make the pamphlet easier to use in the classroom."

Future Topics

High schools across Canada can look forward to future issues on the Canadian Overseas Volunteers Corp., the controversy over allowing Red China into the UN and Canada's role in the UN. None of them will be "watered-down" in the slightest.

Supporting the pamphlet are departments of education in Ontario, British Columbia, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick—and an untold number of schools who take it on an individual basis.

There may have been a time when teen-agers didn't care about what was happening elsewhere in the world. But this week I decided we can look forward to the next generation coming up with some new answers for old problems.

Just remember World Review and its brave attempts to interpret a changing world for teen-agers when our high school model UN General Assemblies get underway.

Heard the story the other day about a girl applying to an exclusive American women's college. She figured she was through when her parents had to answer the question: "Is your daughter a leader or a follower?"

Back came the answer: "One of the reasons we are accepting your daughter for admittance to Vassar is that it appears we are going to have 529 leaders this year. It might be nice to have one follower!"

Now that the youth march on Ottawa protesting the spread of nuclear arms is over, I find it interesting looking at the response I got from a column on students protesting nuclear arms.

The column attracted quite a few letters—but most of them were from adults either blasting teen-agers for discussing the subject or praising them to the skies for doing so.

Typical of those praising the student movement (which is still growing across Canada) was Mrs. J. Walsh, who said:

"More power to the kids. It's their future we've been tossing around for quite a while and I hope they may make some of the adults ashamed of being a nation of sheep!"

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by third readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Andrew Kerr, aged 8, of Fredericton, N.B., for his question:

What Bird Cleans the Crocodile's Teeth?

The crocodile of the Nile is a fierce and hungry man-eater. His long, narrow jaws are fitted with cruel teeth and he can snap his great mouth shut with enough strength to cut through a thick board. He also is a very cunning hunter. His eyes are set in little bulging turrets and his nostrils poke up in little bumps. This makes it possible for him to lie or float in the water with only his eyes and nose above the surface. He stays this way, almost completely hidden, breathing comfortably and watching for his victims.

The hungry crocodile dines on fish and water birds. He also waits with cunning patience hidden in the water and hoping for a deer or perhaps a pig to come down to drink. Then in a flash the big toothy

Friendship With Killer

This brave little black and white bird is called the courser because his long, thin legs take him running over the ground at a great rate. He also is called the zicrae from the sound of his piercing cry. But he is most commonly called the crocodile bird because of his strange friendship with the toothy killer.

The crocodile bird is a plover. He is an Old World cousin of many plovers who live all or part of their lives in North America. Some of these beautiful birds have amazing qualities. The golden plover nests on the chilly tundras of Alaska. In the fall he migrates to Hawaii, flying 2,400 miles over the ocean without stopping for food or

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Julie Harris sits beside the pineapple, avocado and sweet potato in her living room and in a frail voice says, "I am not like Brigitte Bardot."

This surprises her even if it doesn't you.

"I tried to be like her," she confesses, looking nervously at her knees. "I went to see her on the screen. I changed my hair like hers... only not so rouged. But it was hopeless. I'm not like BB... much as I would like to be."

It's one of the season's surprises that Julie, acclaimed for the sexy housemaid role in "A Shot in the Dark," is unhappy that she didn't come off like Bardot.

"Are you doing Marilyn Monroe parts from now on?" I asked.

FASCINATING LIFE

"Oh, no... but to me all life is fascinating." Her voice fades. She is shyness itself, except when acting. She did "The Power and the Glory" on TV; she's also in the film, "Requiem for a Heavyweight."

"I tried to gain weight to look like BB," she says suddenly. "I ate meals in between meals. And I gained five pounds. But the show went out of town... and I lost it all... It was hopeless..."

(The Julie Harris fans could not be happier that she stayed Julie Harris.)

Billy Glason, the comedy writer, urges that something be done about the detractors of Rudy Vallee just because he saved his money.

"He saved his while the rest of us threw it away," says Billy. "Not only that, but he has bought much comedy material from me, paid well for it, and also bought gifts for my wife and myself. Rudy made it and Rudy's still got it!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Bette Davis denies she's making an effort to get out of her forthcoming Bway show, "Night of the Iguana," with Margaret Leighton... Eying Frank Sinatra's 250G airplane and Jackie Gleason's $35,000 Rolls-Royce, Toots Shor—an old friend who has loaned money to both of 'em—says he feels like a peasant... Rome newspapers are predicting Jean Seberg and author Romain Gary'll marry within three weeks—but point out he isn't divorced yet.

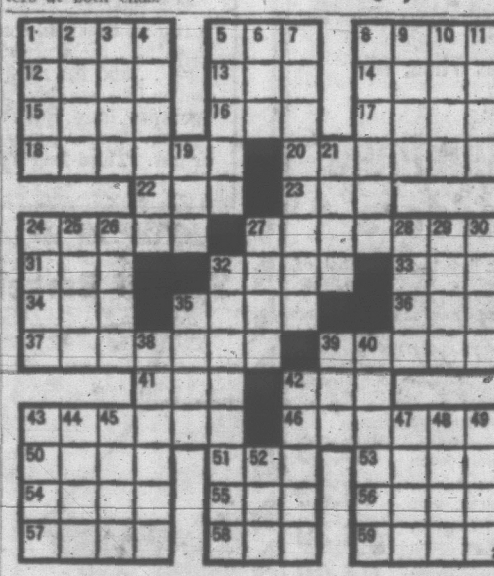

Rita Moreno and Jill Corey auditioned for the two top female roles in the Robert Preston musical, "We Take the Town"... Hugh O'Brian squirmed Joan Fontaine to Colette Renard's plush St. Regis Maisonette opening... Photographer Gary Wagner says a funny thing happened to him the other day—he didn't take a picture of anybody dancing the Twist...

Candid Camera's been covering the Twisters at the Peppermint Lounge... Arlene Dahl phoned from L.A. to tell celebrity chauffeur Roosevelt Zanders to have his $27,500 Rolls ready for her here Sunday, with a bottle warmer for the baby... Insult comic Don Rickles snapped at Basin Street East visitor Peggy Lee: "Be humble, Peggy—you're losing your voice!"... Johnnie Ray's hot new romance is Las Vegas Dunes dancer Bonnie Boswell.

Baseball immortal Rogers Hornsby said at Mike Manuch's that he attributes his sharp batting eye in his prime to attending very few movies.

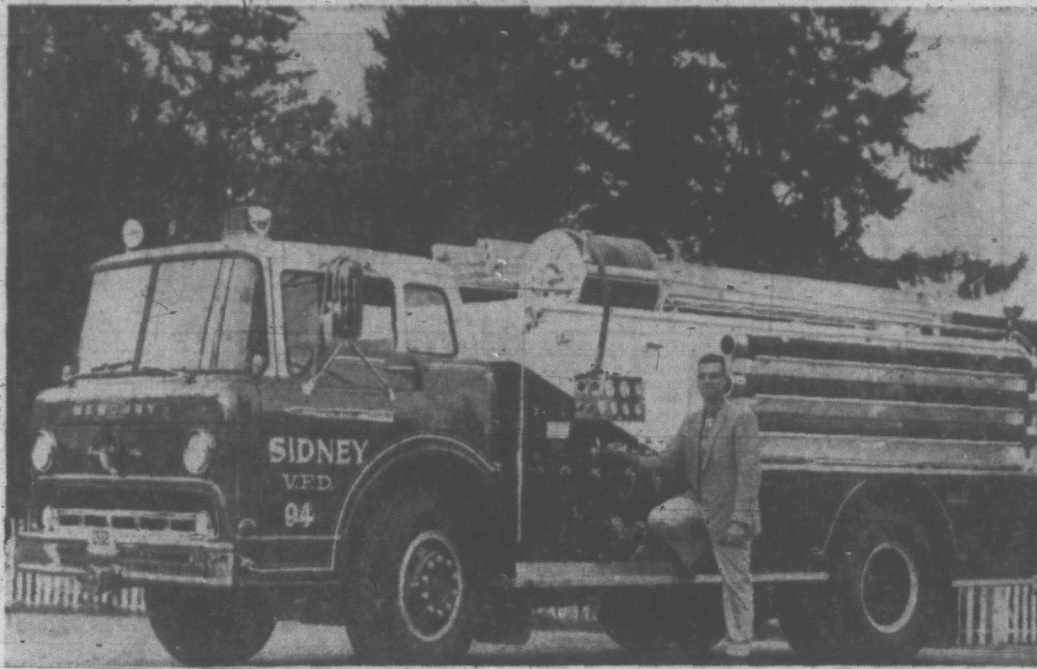

EARL'S PEARLS: There's a new cigarette, reports Nonnee Coan, that can help you break the smoking habit. It has filters at both ends.

AROUND THE ISLAND

Tugs Stand By to Rescue Ship Grounded by Gale

NANAIMO — The grounded freighter Belpareil, chief victim of a violent windstorm in Georgia Strait Wednesday, was to be refloated from a mud-bank in Nanaimo Bay at noon today, according to Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

The company tugs Island Monarch and Anna Gore were on hand to help pull the 7,000-ton ship free at high tide. She is believed undamaged, and has pumped out her ballast for easy refloating.

Trouble for the big ship, of Panamanian registry and operated by Japanese, came Wednesday morning as she was loading logs and cedar shakes for Japan.

'Uneconomic' B.C. Fishery Group Warned

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Washington State economist says the British Columbia fishing industry is uneconomic.

Dr. J. A. Crutchfield of the University of Washington says there are too many fishermen, too much expensive equipment and it is costing more and more to catch the same amount of fish as 20 years ago.

"One department of government is busily improving the efficiency of gear while another department is busy legislating against its use."

NORTH COWICHAN — The municipal council has approved installation of street lights at the junction of Trans-Canada Highway, Canada Avenue, and Sherman Road, providing the city of Duncan will share the cost.

Provincial highways department will pay two-thirds of the total cost of $1,000, but only if Duncan and North Cowichan will pay the balance.

Although the intersection is north of Duncan, North Cowichan councillors consider the lights will direct a greater number of motorists into Duncan via Canada Avenue.

Lighting at the corner long has been sought by the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Branch, Canadian Legion, will start its annual Remembrance Day sale of poppies Friday, with members of the women's auxiliary doing the actual selling.

Legionnaires will be invited to a service Sunday at 7:20 p.m. in St. Peter's Anglican Church, Quamichan, to be conducted by Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh, branch chaplain.

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal employees here have asked North Cowichan council for a pay increase of $20 per month, pay on a monthly basis, and time for statutory holidays on Saturday and Sunday to be added to annual holidays.

Exceptions to the pay proposal are the licence inspector and assistant-public works supervisor.

The workers are members of Municipal Office Employees Association Local 724.

NANAIMO — Teachers here have accepted the Vancouver Island zone-scale for the coming year, which will mean only minor salary adjustments for long-term teachers, and no general increase in pay.

NANAIMO — Damage estimated at $1,000 was caused on Halloween by vandals who scratched plate glass windows in Commercial Street stores, apparently with glass cutters.

Faster Re-Growth Urged On B.C. Forest Industry

Unless industry starts on a research program to improve quality and shorten growing-time of timber it is running "a very serious risk" for the future, Forestry Minister Ray Williston said today.

He enthusiastically praised first steps in such a program at a meeting in Vancouver of B.C.'s Tree Farm Forestry Committee.

The meeting, which opened today, features a series of discussions on forest genetics.

"You are not a moment too soon," Mr. Williston told the meeting.

The aim should be, he said, "to grow bigger and better trees in a shorter period of time."

CUT TO 40 YEARS

B.C.'s coastal forests take between 80 and 100 years to reach commercial size, he said. And yet southern pine forests in the U.S., B.C.'s biggest competitor, have been reduced to a 40-year cycle.

Large scale genetics programs are working full speed to cut this time even more.

"It is possible to improve the quality of the commercial trees of B.C. just as wheat and other agricultural crops have been improved over the years through applied genetics," said Mr. Williston.

"I think it is valid to say that unless industry gives serious thought to wood quality required in the future and supports a program of realistic forest genetics today, it is running a very serious risk for tomorrow," he said.

Friday Dr. Bruce Zobel, professor of forest genetics at North Carolina State College, will address the Vancouver

Report Urges U.S. to Join Trading Group

By MAX FREEDMAN
(Special to The Times)

WASHINGTON — In a historic report to Congress that may transform American economic policy, the United States has been urged to form a "trade partnership with the European Common Market" and to "take the leadership in further expanding a free world economic community."

This advice has been submitted to Congress on behalf of both parties in a report written by Christian Herter, former secretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, and William Clayton, an under-secretary of state in the Truman administration.

The report welcomes the formation of the Common Market, expresses the hope that Britain will become an important member of it, and declares its conviction that the Common Market has changed the whole outlook for world trade.

It adds that Canada and the United States should join with the western European countries that together form the 20 members of the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development to create a unified market comprising "a half billion of the most highly industrialized peoples in the world."

It warns that if the U.S. fails to associate itself with

'NO TALKS WITH US' —JOHN D

OTTAWA (CP) — There have been no talks between Canada and the United States on the possibility of either nation joining the European Common Market, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today.

He declined comment on a report Wednesday by Christian Herter, American state secretary in the Eisenhower administration, urging the U.S. to establish a trading partnership with the Common Market.

the Common Market movement there will be constant economic friction between western Europe and the United States and its Allies in the Pacific.

'Longer We Wait, Harder It Will Be'

"The longer the United States waits," the report declares, "the more difficult it will be to align its trade policies to match the Common Market's own actions. By the end of this year, the Six will have reduced their tariffs to each other by 40 to 50 per cent."

"Thus we recommend that the United States open negotiations, as soon as practicable, for a trade partnership with the European Common Market, at the same time stressing the absolute necessity of enlarging the area."

Mr. Herter and Mr. Clayton said in their report that the achievement of a free world economic community will create a new sense of partnership with the uncommitted countries and strengthen their resistance to communism. They proposed that one way to ease the adjustment for the uncommitted countries, and to raise their standard of living, would be to grant unilaterally to groups of such countries, as distinguished from individual countries, the right to free trade on their exports of raw materials to industrial countries. Another way would be by reduction in import tariffs by these uncommitted countries at the rate of five per cent per annum in consideration of the industrialized countries reducing their duties at the rate of 10 per cent per annum.

Comparative Advantage the Basis

"Without restrictive tariffs or other impediments to the movement of goods across national frontiers," the report declares, "production would be rationalized on the basis of comparative advantage, just as it has been in the fifty states of the U.S.A. Under such conditions, there would, in our opinion, take place the greatest expansion in productive facilities, including those of the United States, that the world has ever known."

The report describes Britain's decision to open negotiations for joining the common market as "a turning point in history." It adds that the common market ushers in an age of new competition, new ideas, and new initiative. Then it continues:

"But the happy prospect of healing western European differences still leaves the two sides of the Atlantic with a gap in economic policies that is getting wider, not narrower, all the time."

"On the one hand, western Europe, for centuries divided into many separate economic and political compartments, is attempting now the elimination of her internal trade barriers and her customs houses so that her 325 million people and their goods can move freely from one country to another.

"On the other hand, the United States is in reverse. It takes too frequent refuge in protectionist devices. But even if this country stood still it would be drifting backwards because it would not be keeping pace with Europe's determined move forward."

"At the close of the Second World War the United States embarked upon a policy designed to bring about a great expansion in the world economy. There resulted the GATT and later the Marshall Plan, with the Organization for European Economic Co-operation to implement it. OEEC, now the larger organization for economic co-operation and development, was organized at the request of the United States by countries recipient of Marshall Plan aid. It is perhaps not too much to say

'Open Competitive Trading' U.S. Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kennedy administration pledged itself Wednesday night to a new foreign economic policy of "open competitive trading" for the whole non-Communist world.

Undersecretary of State George Ball, in a speech to the national foreign trade convention, forecast the emergence of a concentration of nearly 90 per cent of the total free world exports of industrial products in two great common markets.

One of these, he said, would be the European Common Market "consisting of over 300,000,000 people." The other would be the United States, with its 180,000,000 people.

Ball said trade barrier reductions negotiated by the European Common Market and the United States would be non-discriminatory, and therefore would create expanding opportunities for other countries.

Gore Says PNR 'Will Go Ahead'

Legal Details To Be Cleared

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the Pacific Northern Railways says the company will go ahead with construction of its 700-mile right-of-way in northern B.C.

BY MOBUTU

Katanga Gains Claimed

(Times News Services)

LEOPOLDVILLE — Gen. Joseph Mobutu said today troops of the central Congo government have moved along a wide front more than 35 miles into north Katanga province in a general offensive to end the long-standing secession proclaimed by President Moise Tshombe of Katanga.

Occupying villages and mission stations as they march, Mobutu said his troops have been joyously received by the Katanga population.

The beaming army commander-in-chief told reporters flags of the central government are being planted all along the route from Kasai province into northwestern Katanga.

"The missionaries and villagers are rushing out to greet us, giving our troops food and candy," he said.

Mobutu said he had given the order for the offensive after his troops along the Katanga border had been bombed by Katanga planes. Troops under the control of Premier Albert Kalonji of south Kasai province had shot down one of the Katanga planes, Mobutu said.

CRASH CLAIMS TWO

He said it was occupied by five white mercenaries in multi. Two were killed in the crash and "the others were finished off by the soldiers."

Mobutu said the purpose of the offensive was "to end the secession of Katanga."

He said Congolese troops brought to Kasai from various garrisons had attacked only after the "Katangese provocation" of mortar fire across the frontier and after a bombing raid.

"Werner-Gren will build the PNR," Bernard Gore said Wednesday in a telephone interview from London, England.

"The B.C. government is well aware of our position," he said. "They know there are certain legal technicalities to be cleared up. When this is done, the rail line will be built."

In Victoria Transport Minister Westwood would not comment today on plans for the railroad in northern British Columbia.

He was in his office but his secretary told reporters that if their questions had anything to do with the PNR, there would be "no comment."

The railway, one of the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren, had until Nov. 1 to let contracts for clearing the first 100 miles of its proposed 700-mile right-of-way from Summit Lake to the Yukon border.

An agreement with the government in June stipulated that if work did not begin by Nov. 1 the firm would forfeit its franchise.

Mr. Gore said no contract has been let. He said the company replied in September to the government ultimatum and is still awaiting word from Mr. Westwood.

He refused to detail the legal complications or say whether the PNR had asked for an extension of the deadline.

However, it was understood that the legal problems concern a lawsuit brought earlier by the city of Prince Rupert, which says the new railway should branch north from the Canadian National Railway line near Hazelton.

BNA Act Change Forecast By Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Hope that legislation may be introduced between now and the next six to 10 months providing for amendment in Canada of the British North America Act was expressed today by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

He told a press conference that considerable progress has been made at federal-provincial conferences.

West Berliners Fear Big 4 Pact Weakened

BERLIN (Reuters) — West Berlin newspapers today criticized an Allied order empowering West Berlin police to impose controls over certain diplomatic traffic from East and West Berlin.

One newspaper said the order could take "another slice" from four-power agreements on Berlin and another commented that "large political consequences can result."

An American spokesman said the order was given at the request of the West Berlin government headed by Mayor Willy Brandt. But city government sources said they understood it was the outcome of talks in Moscow between American Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet foreign ministry officials.

Under the order, West Berlin police now check the identities of all persons in civilian clothes entering the city from East Berlin except for those travelling in official Soviet vehicles.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — A South Vietnamese paratroop battalion fought its way out of a communist ambush in a bloody battle against heavy odds only 40 miles from Saigon Wednesday, the government announced today.

The 500-man force was attacked by 1,000 communist guerrillas.

A spokesman said the paratroopers lost 200 men and the Reds 100.

Testing Moratorium Unfeasible — Russia

UNITED NATIONS (CP) —

The Soviet Union today rejected any new United Nations moratorium on nuclear bomb testing as unfeasible in practice and fundamentally incorrect as an approach to ending such tests.

(See earlier page 8.)

In a speech before the General Assembly's main political committee, Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin charged time after time that the United States and the other Western powers were trying to drag the world into a devastating nuclear war.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said today the United States will make preparations to set off nuclear tests in the atmosphere if they become necessary to safeguard free world security.

Kennedy, in a statement read personally to reporters after a meeting of the National Security Council, said the U.S. would never test in the atmosphere for political reasons.

Atmospheric tests, which spread radioactive fallout, would be resorted to only if determined necessary to maintain U.S. responsibilities in the world, Kennedy said.

Even if such a situation is deemed to exist, he said, tests in the atmosphere would be undertaken only to the degree necessary for "older development" of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy once again emphasized that the United States is strong militarily — strong enough to retaliate with devastation if attacked.

He also said the United States, to demonstrate its nuclear capabilities, would not fire a nuclear explosive of 50 megatons or more such as the Soviet Union detonated this week.

UNDERLYING PROBLEMS TO BE PROBED

Canadian Peace Research Institute Formed

MONTREAL (CP) — Three

prominent Canadian scientists today announced the establishment of the Canadian Peace Research Institute — a non-profit institute incorporated under federal charter "to engage scientists in full-time research on problems that underlie international tensions and the nuclear peril."

The announcement was made at the third annual seminar on international affairs at Sir George Williams University by

Norman Z. Alcock of Oakville,

Ont., engineer and nuclear physicist; Dr. Brock Chisholm of Victoria, former director-general of the World Health Organization, and Kenneth E. Boulding, professor of economics at the University of Michigan and formerly of McGill University.

The scientists said financial arrangements for the institute will be complete early in 1962 and "it will be operating, with personnel, in 1962."

Institute scientists would examine the physical, economic and social bases of international tension and recommend means of alleviating or eliminating them to the government.

STUDY BASIC PROBLEMS

Early projects of the Canadian Peace Research Institute would include four basic problems:

1. Psychological barriers to disarmament and a world authority. The study would include analysis of the instinctive and economic fears of disarming and of submitting to a world authority, and devising means of removing the basis of these fears.

2. Development of safeguards against accidental war. Scientists would devise methods of preventing an accidental nuclear explosion and would seek to improve communications between major powers to prevent the outbreak of war over a nuclear accident.

... co-founder

3. Analysis of the experience of United Nations police forces to determine the requisites for most effective action.

on international tensions. Using sociological techniques, scientists would predict trouble spots in the world so that preventive measures could be taken before crises were reached.

PUBLIC PAYS HALF

The establishment and operation of the institute, from 1962 to 1966, the scientists said, will cost about $4,000,000.

Public subscriptions for half the amount would be sought, and the federal government would be asked to match them.

The Peace Research Institute, to be established at a university in Eastern Canada, is supported by five national organizations: Voice of Women, the Canadian Committee for the Control of Combined Universities Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, the Society of Friends (Quakers) and the World Federalists of Canada.

President Shrum
Gives Details

Light bills across B.C. probably will be reduced April 1, B.C. Electric president Dr. Gordon Shrum announced here today.

He said this would be "the logical time" to coincide with annual budgets of the government's two power agencies, B.C. Electric and B.C. Power Commission.

Dr. Shrum told a Rotary Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel that the "small users" of electricity—homeowners—would benefit most by the cuts. He said it was the government's goal to establish a single, uniform rate for power across the province.

Eventually, he said, B.C. rates would be reduced to the level of Ontario hydro.

Dr. Shrum, in what he called his first report to shareholders of the B.C. Electric, also said: More top level resignations will come this week at B.C. Electric.

B.C. Electric and the Power Commission will merge in about five years, once both Peace River and Columbia River power projects are under way.

No Sharp Staff Reductions

There will be no significant reduction in staff either at Victoria or Vancouver next Jan. 1 when B.C. Hydro takes over all Greater Victoria power operations in exchange for interior and northern territory to be run by B.C. Electric.

In this connection, Dr. Shrum said both companies have now ordered a "staff freeze" with no new hirings until after Jan. 1.

On the reduction in rates, announced last week by Premier Bennett, Dr. Shrum said: "When and how much is a matter we are studying."

"What we're aiming for—and we may not be able to do it immediately—is one rate for the whole of B.C."

"It may be a good idea even if it costs more," he said.

He said announcement of the exact amount of the reductions would come after the re-alignment of B.C. Electric and B.C. Hydro territory.

"The logical time is when our new budget takes place April 1."

He added: "Don't expect every customer to get $100 reduction, but it will be significant."

Smaller Users to Benefit

"Our objective is the maximum reduction to smaller users because industrial rates are not too far out of line in relation to most other places."

He said it "will not be easy" to come down as far as Ontario's rates, because B.C. Electric has such liabilities as an uneconomic bus system to operate.

"We may have to wait until we get a large source of hydro-electric power. But Ontario hydro rates are going up. If we sit still long enough we'll get down to Ontario hydro rates."

Dr. Shrum said the new B.C. Electric resignations will include "some quite senior ones."

But, he said, the company has not so far lost any of its key operations staff—supervisors and managers.

There will have to be more resignations, he said, "because we have a surplus of senior staff."

However, this does not apply in Victoria, he added.

He said he didn't think the Victoria staff situation will change "very much" when B.C. Hydro takes over.

In Vancouver, B.C. Electric

THE ONLY MAN I EVER CARED FOR

He Loved...and Died for Me

VANCOUVER—"He loved me so much he was willing to die for me."

Red-haired Dawn Adams, convicted bawdy house keeper, used those words Wednesday to describe her 34-year-old lawyer husband, Edward Rogers, who took an overdose of sleeping pills after unsuccessfully defending her on the charge in a Victoria court. (See also Page 30.)

Padding around her apartment in black leotards and stroking a Siamese cat, Mrs. Rogers—charged under her former name of Dawn Adams—said her husband had "kinky moods."

She said a few weeks ago she went to the police after trying to kill her. He told them she was wanted in Victoria for skipping bail on a two-year-old bawdy house charge. That night he had cut up $1,000 worth of her clothes with a razor blade, later saying he didn't remember.

"I knew he was in one of his kinky moods," she said. After her husband's suicide death she was given a suspended sentence on the bawdy house charge and fined $300 for skipping bail.

Mrs. Rogers said she will scatter her husband's ashes over English Bay.

"He died for me, not because of me," she said. "You don't know how I loved him. He was the first man I really loved. He loved me so much he was willing to sacrifice his life for me."

"Our happiest memories were swimming, skiing and picnicking at the sea. The least I can do is put him to rest in the waters he loved so well."

"They say I am a call girl. I cannot live with that name. I am a good girl. I was a good wife."

She may go back to her native England to forget.

"Society is forcing me to leave," she said, disclosing she had been given 30 days to vacate her west-end apartment.

Rogers Faced Court Trial Over Threat

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer who committed suicide in Victoria while his wife was in jail awaiting sentence on a bawdy house charge was wanted by police on a charge of threatening to kill her; it was learned here Wednesday.

The charge was laid Oct. 7 against Edward C. Rogers, 34, by his wife Dawn, whom he unsuccessfully defended on the charge in a Victoria courtroom last week.

She had told police Rogers threatened her by saying, "I'm going to kill you within the hour. You've got 60 seconds to finish your cigarette."

Rogers did not appear Oct. 10 in police court to face the charge and was arrested on a bench warrant 10 days later. He was released on his own recognizance and told to appear Oct. 23.

He didn't appear on that date and a second warrant for his arrest was issued. The threatening charge was formally dropped Tuesday.

Rogers died from an overdose of a drug in his Empress Hotel room in Victoria last Thursday—hours after the unsuccessful defence of his wife.

Mrs. Rogers, who had been charged under the name Dawn Adams, was given a suspended sentence Monday on the bawdy house charge and fined $300 for skipping bail on a charge two years ago.

Katanga Gains Claimed

(Times News Services)

LEOPOLDVILLE—Gen. Joseph Mobutu said today troops of the central Congo government have moved along a wide front more than 35 miles into north Katanga province in a general offensive to end the long-standing secession proclaimed by President Moise Tshombe of Katanga.

Occupying villages and mission stations as they march, Mobutu said his troops have been joyously received by the Katanga population.

(An Elisabethville Katanga Foreign Minister, Evariste Kimba claimed the Central Congolese forces had been repulsed from the borders.)

The beaming army commander-in-chief told reporters flags of the central government are being planted all along the route from Kasai province into northwestern Katanga.

"The missionaries and villagers are rushing out to greet us, giving our troops food and candy," he said.

Mobutu said he had given the order for the offensive after his troops along the Katanga border had been bombed by Katanga planes.

Troops under the control of Premier Albert Kalonji of south Kasai province had shot down one of the Katanga planes, Mobutu said.

CRASH CLAIMS TWO

He said it was occupied by five white mercenaries in multi. Two were killed in the crash and "the others were finished off by the soldiers."

Mobutu said the purpose of the offensive was "to end the secession of Katanga."

He said Congolese troops brought to Kasai from various garrisons had attacked only after the "Katangese provocation" of mortar fire across the frontier and after a bombing raid.

IN CANADA

Peace Research Institute Formed

MONTREAL (CP) — Three prominent Canadian scientists today announced the establishment of the Canadian Peace Research Institute—a non-profit institute incorporated under federal charter "to engage scientists in full-time research on problems that underlie international tensions and the nuclear peril."

The announcement was made at the third annual seminar on international affairs at Sir George Williams University by Norman Z. Alcock of Oakville, Ont., engineer and nuclear physicist; Dr. Brock Chisholm of Victoria, former director-general of the World Health Organization, and Kenneth E. Boulding, professor of economics at the University of Michigan and formerly of McGill University.

The scientists said financial arrangements for the institute will be complete early in 1962 and "it will be operating with an initial staff of 25 scientific personnel in 1962."

Institute scientists would examine the physical, economic and social bases of international tension and recommend means of alleviating or eliminating them to the government.

STUDY BASIC PROBLEMS

Early projects of the Canadian Peace Research Institute would include four basic problems:

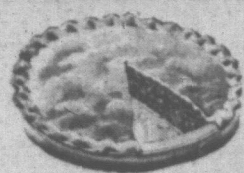

1. Psychological barriers to disarmament and a world authority. The study would include analysis of the instinctive and economic fears of disarming and of submitting to a world authority, and devising means of removing the basis of these fears.

2. Development of safeguards against accidental war. Scientists would devise methods of preventing an accidental nuclear explosion and would seek to improve communications between major powers to

How does your product stack up?

In an era when many forms of advertising are criticized by the public, daily newspaper advertisements have retained their popularity. Most people not only like newspaper ads, but want them. And one of the most important reasons is "comparison shopping." Through their daily newspapers people check the features, benefits and prices of competitive products and services. They also discover where to buy. They find newspaper advertising definite, informative and... IN PRINT. Print advertising can be reviewed and remembered. Retailers who sell your merchandise spend 82% of their own advertising money in daily newspapers.
